Howe, Forrestal Plan Talks On Arms Supply

WASHINGTON (CP) — Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, Canadian trade minister, said today he will confer this week with James Forrestal, United States Defence Secretary, on "procurement of military supplies."

Howe arrived here today from Ottawa.

"Interdependency of the military supplies of Canada and the United States makes an exchange of views useful at this time," the Canadian minister said in a statement.

TO EXPORT METALS

Mr. Howe did not elaborate on the nature of his proposed talks with Forrestal except to point out that Canada's munitions program is dependent on the United States for "a number of finished products" and that the United States depends on Canada for "supplies, including metals."

"Canada is particularly interested in obtaining a number of specific items of United States equipment," he said.

His statement was interpreted as partial confirmation of recent Ottawa reports that he would explore the possibilities of obtaining large scale United States orders for Canadian military equipment.

Howe, accompanied by M. W. Mackenzie, deputy trade minister, also will confer with Arthur Hill, chairman of the U.S. Natural Resources Board, and officials of the U.S. Munitions Board.

TO SIGN AGREEMENT

He said he will attend a ceremony Thursday afternoon as representative at the signing of an agreement between Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom on standardization of screw threads.

From another source, it was learned that Canada is keenly interested in getting U.S. orders for production of aircraft parts. United States order for, say, airframes, would greatly increase production in Canadian aircraft plants. Such expansion would cut over-all costs and could lead to a boost in production of aircraft for the R.C.A.F.

Two B.C. Men Held On Narcotics Charge

TORONTO (CP) — Wilfrid Tutty and Elmer Severson, both 32, were arrested today on charges of illegal possession of narcotics.

Police said they suspected both men might have connections in a drug traffic from Vancouver to Toronto and that the pair would be questioned by the R.C.M.P. narcotic squad.

Tutty and Severson were arrested after a nine-hour police vigil over a drug cache at the rear of a Morse Street garage.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Dominion-Provincial conference on the trans-Canada highway will open here Dec. 14, resources Minister MacKinnon announced today.

60-Mile Gale Hits City Disrupts Power Service

Gales raging as high as 60 miles an hour lashed at Greater Victoria again overnight, bringing down power lines in areas throughout the entire district, and weather officials forecast continued gales for today.

B.C. Electric officials reported every man of the company's repair crews has been out since 2 this morning. The crews are expected to continue work all today and well into tonight repairing the breaks and damage to power lines.

Saanich was the hardest hit. A transformer blew out at the Wilkinson Rd. sub-station at 2:45 this morning as the gale neared its peak velocity. Power went off in the whole of the Saanich and north of Garden City, on the East Road as far as Elk Lake and on the West Road as far as the St. Joseph's Hospital farm.

Many primary lines were down. Poles were toppled to the ground and trees were thrown across lines in many districts.

B.C. Telephone officials reported they had been lucky and that their lines had escaped with very little damage.

Local coastal craft were in little danger as most were still in shelter sought during the Sunday gale, and continuing storms in the gulf Monday. Both coastal passenger lines, the C.P.R.'s B.C. Coast Service and the Black Ball Line, continued operating their vessels on routes in and out of Victoria. Trans-Canada Airlines reported the only effect of the gale had been to cause a slight delay in flights.

A spectacular display of water shooting 100 feet into the air from a main at Blanshard and Humboldt was caused by the storm at 7 this morning.

HEAVY GLASS DAMAGE

Property damage was suffered as windows in business firms and homes in the city and district were smashed or knocked out of their frames by the heavy winds.

Biggest window to cave in during the night from the blasts was one 18 feet by 10 feet at Louis Nelson's garage.

On construction jobs anything that wasn't nailed into position was blown down. At the Wilfrids, where work is in progress taking down existing buildings, the wind gave considerable aid to the demolition work.

Weather officials at the Gonzales Meteorological Observatory reported that from midnight to 1 this morning, the wind averaged 40, from 1 to 2, it was at 44 miles an hour, increasing until it had reached its peak of 60 miles an hour from the southwest from 4 to 5 this morning. From then it began to fall until it was blowing 34 miles an hour between 6 and 7. Now the officials predict southwest gales of 40 miles an hour through today decreasing tonight.

Toronto Minister Accepts Call To First United Here

Rev. Moir A. J. Waters, B.A., B.D., will be the new minister of First United Church here, it was announced today.

The call to Mr. Waters has been accepted and he is expected in the city about the end of the year. Induction service will be held on Jan. 7 and he will occupy his new pulpit for the first time on Jan. 9.

The new minister is currently at Lawrence Park United Church, Toronto, where he has built up a large following during the past three years.

He will replace Dr. Hugh A. McLeod who has gone to the Knox United Church, Winnipeg.

Mr. Waters graduated from Emmanuel College, Toronto, and served as assistant minister at Eaton Memorial Church in the same city following his graduation.

MISSIONARY SERVICE

For a time he was minister of St. Andrews' United Church at London, Ont., following which he spent a term as missionary of the United Church of Canada in India.

Mr. Waters is a son of Dr. James Waters, a former medical missionary in India, and a nephew of the late Archbishop Stringer who performed distinguished church service in the Yukon.

The new pastor is a family man, with two children, a boy, James, aged eight, and a daughter four.

Dr. W. G. Wilson, who was minister at First United Church here before Dr. McLeod and who is now retired, and Rev. F. W. Anderson, are carrying on the ministerial duties of the church until Mr. Waters' arrival.

Alberni Road Open Friday Morning

B.C. district engineer's office reported today that Alberni Road will be open Friday morning. The familiar landmark of Angel Rock on the Port Alberni-Nanaimo Highway was destroyed in gales on Sunday, leaving a huge mass of rock across the road and cutting Port Alberni off from all highway arteries. Hundreds of tons of rock came down on the highway in the landslide.

New Lumber Deal

Chiang Leaders Say Big Victory On Suchow Front

NANKING (AP) — The Chinese government claimed a major victory on the Suchow front tonight to climax a confused day which still left the final outcome of the battle for the approaches to Nanking in doubt.

Pro-government newspapers splashed their buildings with red posters and exploded firecrackers to call attention to placards announcing the Communists had been routed northeast of Suchow and were withdrawing northeastward.

REPORTS CONFLICT

That news, circulated by the defence ministry's official military news agency, was in direct contrast to the generally accepted reports from other sources that the government control of the whole Suchow area was tottering.

The United States Embassy warned some 7,000 Americans to get out of China now or risk "hazardous conditions."

Government spokesman Hollington Tong denied reports Suchow had fallen or even was threatened with Red capture. He told the Associated Press:

"The city is firmly in our hands and the Reds are withdrawing to the northeastward."

DOUBTS EXPRESSED

Neutral observers, however, continued to eye the reports with considerable reserve.

More than 100 British and other foreigners are expected to join Americans this week-end when a second evacuation ship leaves Nanking.

Schools To Close Friday In Honor Of Royal Birth

British Columbia public school students will get a full-day holiday Friday of this week to mark the birth of the heir to the British throne.

This was decided today at a meeting of the provincial cabinet and announced by Education Minister W. T. Straith. Mr. Straith said that the schools would be asked to arrange patriotic demonstrations on Thursday before students are released for the long week-end.

Mr. Straith issued this statement:

"The birth of a royal prince, who will one day become King of Canada, is an event which occurs only once in many years, and the government feels that the schools should suitably celebrate the occasion. A holiday is being declared for the public schools of the province for Friday, Nov. 19; and all principals and teachers are being asked to arrange for appropriate exercises on Thursday afternoon, stressing the significance of this event and giving prominence to the flag and the British tradition; the crown being the one tie which remains in uniting all members of our commonwealth."

Retired Laborer Not Talking To Reporters About Inheritance

VANCOUVER (CP) — A retired laborer today remained hidden behind locked doors while Vancouver newspapermen futilely tried to ferret out his reaction to a $64,000 inheritance. Hubert Alexander Ross buried himself in his room Monday night when the news of his good fortune reached the newspapers in a Canadian Press report from Manchester, Eng.

"He won't talk to anybody," his landlady, Mrs. N. Traversy, yelled from atop a flight of stairs in the rooming house which he shares with 13 other pensioners.

The Manchester report said Ross had inherited the money from his uncle. Ross' counsel claimed the money was concealed from Ross by "a wicked

Tug Sinks Off Pt. Townsend; Two Deaths; Barge Floats

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash. (AP) — A drifting barge was sighted off Point Wilson early today and the U.S. Coast Guard, on reaching the scene, found the tug which had been towing it had sunk and the line was still attached to the barge.

Two men are missing. The tug, lying in 84 feet of water, was identified as one which left Port Angeles Monday for Matsmat, near Port Ludlow, towing an empty 100-foot flat-topped barge. Heavy winds swept the area Monday night.

The Master, Ed. Gunderson, veteran Puget Sound skipper, and Leland Fox, crew member, both of Seattle, were missing.

Big Boom For Halifax Stopped By Stevedores

HALIFAX (CP) — The United States port strike at first was a premature Christmas present for the port of Halifax, but today the Scrooge of labor trouble had crossed the border and slowed down activity here.

A spokesman for 2,000 Halifax stevedores said Monday they would not work ships diverted here from strike-bound American ports, although they will help to prepare for sailing four big liners already in port.

The announcement gave a touch of irony to harbor boosters, in the midst of honoring a "Port of Halifax Week," a promotional scheme to advertise and bring more business here.

Vancouver Police Accused Of Theft

VANCOUVER (CP) — City police constables Fred Rihman and W. G. Idler today were charged with theft of $25 from Tong Gee, local Chinese. The men were automatically suspended by Chief Constable Walter Mulligan.

The Chinese charged the prowler officers plucked the money from his pockets, pushed him in the police car and drove through a lane behind the police station, where Tong jumped out.

He said he shouted to another Chinese that he had been robbed. The Chinese, who said the incident occurred Nov. 8, identified the two officers in a line-up.

B.C. Police headquarters here today reported that an inquest would be held at 2 Wednesday afternoon, in Duncan, to inquire into the death of Nairjan Singh, about 35, employee of the Khalfa Timber Co., who was killed in a truck accident Monday afternoon.

According to police, Nairjan Singh was riding in a timber truck which went out of control on the Mount Tzouhalem Road. He jumped from the truck which rolled over on top of him.

Police said the truck was driven by Jagdha Singh, who stayed in the vehicle and was uninjured.

Truman Repeats Reds Must Lift Blockade First

PARIS (AP) — The Lie-Evatt effort to launch new negotiations to settle the Berlin crisis wound up in a stalemate today, with the United States and Russia standing by their previous positions.

President Truman announced the United States will not resume four-power negotiations on Germany until Russia lifts her blockade of Berlin. That has been the American stand all along, and British and French representatives announced in Paris earlier today that their views are the same as those of the United States.

(At Key West, Fla., Mr. Truman told a press conference he would review the entire international situation with State Secretary Marshall at the White House Nov. 22.)

(Truman made it clear that: (1) He has no plans for a meeting with Stalin. He said he will not leave Washington for such a conference, but that his invitation to Stalin to visit Washington still stands.

(2) He has no plans to send an emissary to Moscow to talk with Stalin.)

Russia, in a reply to the Lie-Evatt appeal, stood by her insistence that the Council of Foreign Ministers take up the question of Berlin and Germany as a whole.

The two top officials of United Nations, Secretary-General Trygve Lie and Assembly President H. V. Evatt, had appealed to the four powers last week to negotiate on Berlin in the interests of world peace.

The Russian reply to Lie and Evatt was signed by the Soviet deputy foreign minister, Andrei Vishinsky. The Moscow radio announced its terms.

The Foreign Ministers of Britain, the United States and France met at the French Foreign Office to frame their reply and adjourned after 40 minutes.

The nature of this reply was kept secret, but authoritative sources said it coincided with a French view that the west will not negotiate under the duress of the Berlin blockade, but hopes that the Berlin issue can be solved by conciliation.

A French government spokesman announced this stand earlier.

The spokesman, Francois Mitterand, issued the statement following a cabinet meeting. Mitterand is the French Secretary of State for Information.

Newfoundland Group

Petitions Britain To Restore Powers

LONDON (CP) — Members of the Newfoundland delegation today said they had formally signed a petition to the British parliament for re-establishment of responsible government in Newfoundland.

ELECTION DESIRED

The petition asks immediate restoration of responsible government and that "no negotiations be undertaken or concluded for the union of Newfoundland with Canada other than by representatives of a duly elected government of the people of Newfoundland."

In talks with members of parliament and others the delegation emphasized that restoration of responsible government would not mean that confederation plans would be automatically discarded. If the Crown colony voted as it did in the referendum favoring confederation, there was the prospect that a pre-confederation government would be elected and there would be no delay in negotiations with Canada.

U.N. Council Backs Canada On Armistice In Holy Land

PARIS (CP) — The United Nations' Security Council today ordered Arabs and Jews to establish an immediate armistice in Palestine.

The council's order said an armistice would "facilitate the transition from the present truce to a permanent peace in Palestine."

The council voted on the resolution in sections. Russia and the Soviet Ukraine abstained.

Previously, the council had rejected a Russian proposal calling for the immediate establishment of a formal peace.

The resolution adopted was submitted by Canada, with the support of Belgium and France. The council rejected a Syrian attempt to amend the resolution to widen a Negev withdrawal order to include the Galilee front in northern Palestine. Only Syria, China and Belgium supported the amendment. The remaining eight members abstained.

The United States, Belgium, Colombia, Argentina, France, Canada and China supported the resolution's original text after the Syrian amendment had failed.

The United States opposed the Soviet resolution on the grounds establishment of a formal peace at once is not practicable. U.S. delegate Philip C. Jessup said it was hoped an armistice would be the first step to a final peace settlement.

Hopes For New Financial Agreement With Dominion

Hope for a new financial agreement next year with the Dominion government, was expressed by Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb at the annual meeting of the Saanich Progressive Conservative Association Monday.

The minister said the federal government had failed to live up to the agreement which was approved by the 1947 legislature.

"The agreement would have been satisfactory if the federal government had lived up to its contract," he said. "It did not do that."

The minister said it was too early yet to say if the provincial government would be able to draft a new agreement with the federal government. "I hope we can do so next year," he added, "you never can tell."

Due to a large increase in population, the minister said British Columbians should expect increase in government costs.

POPULATION OF 260,000

"The population has increased by 260,000 during the last six years," he said. "The increase in population is spread over a wide area with the result that costs have gone up. We have had to build roads and schools and increase our administration staffs."

The three per cent sales tax was necessary if the province was to carry out its social security program.

Stating that elderly people were arriving in British Columbia "in droves," the minister said there were now approximately 26,000 people drawing old age pensions in the province.

"Will anyone stand up and ask me to abolish the three per cent tax and deprive these people of pensions," he said. "I tell you I wouldn't do it."

The minister said he was against the government interfering with business. "I can run my business much better than the government can," he said. "Business men have more experience."

COALITION

With regard to the Coalition government, Mr. Anscomb urged the electorate to support the government until there was no longer any danger of "democratic socialism" gaining power in British Columbia.

"I know there are many of us who don't like the coalition," he said, "but if the coalition is weak the socialist will take charge."

When the danger of socialism was gone, he said, the Conservatives could then break away from the coalition if they were not happy about the union.

But the minister warned that unless the party was strong the Liberals would crush them aside. "If we are strong and they are weak, the Liberals would expect us to brush them aside," he said.

The meeting also heard Leon Ladner, Vancouver, former member of parliament, urge the federal government to immediately restore the supremacy of parliament.

Mr. Ladner said the present government was now ruling Canada by order-in-council, ministerial proclamation and departmental regulation.

"The Progressive Conservative party will restore the supremacy of parliament, if it wins the next election," he said. "We are against bureaucratic government."

SAYS TAXES TOO HIGH

Speaking on the subject of taxation, Mr. Ladner said there was no reason why the Canadian people should be taxed as they are now.

He said the Progressive Conservative party had pledged itself to relieve the burden of taxation by increasing the personal income exemption by at least $2,500 for married persons and to at least $1,250 for single persons.

He also said the party would increase the exemption for dependent children by $200 per child. "I predict that the finance minister will do this when he presents his budget at the next session of the House of Commons," he said.

According to the speaker, the operation of the Foreign Exchange Control Board had caused the Canadian economy serious injury, particularly when it restored the Canadian dollar to a parity with the American dollar.

Major-General G. R. Peakes, M.P. for Nanaimo, described the Progressive Conservative platform as the "best since confederation."

"But we have to let the people know what we intend to do if we are elected," he said. "We must let the people know what our aims and our objectives are."

The association elected Maurice Atkins as their new president; Hazel Woodward, vice-president; F. Butler, 2nd vice-president; C. U. Hayward, 3rd vice-president, and S. P. Tucker, secretary-treasurer.

Executive officers elected were B. Bath, A. Frayne, Mrs. F. Butler, K. K. Hemstreet, Capt. F. Riley and Major L. H. MacQueen, retiring president.

Drew Challenges Howe Over Power Issue In Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — George Drew, National Progressive Conservative leader, said Monday he could challenge Trade Minister Howe to meet him on "the public platform" and debate Ontario's Hydro shortage.

He was commenting on Mr. Howe's speech in London, Ont., last Saturday in which the federal Trade and Commerce Minister said the power shortage was a "man-made calamity" and the man responsible for it "is the present leader of the Progressive Conservative Party at Ottawa, Mr. George Drew."

In a prepared statement Mr. Drew said Mr. Howe's speech was a "low and unprincipled attempt to play dirty politics with a situation which affects every worker, every home and every producer in Ontario."

He said he would meet Mr. Howe "anywhere . . . in Ontario where a radio hook-up can carry our words to the people of every part of the province. In that way they will learn what the facts really are and how to judge his reckless effort to sabotage the fine spirit of co-operation which has been shown everywhere since the lowest water levels on record in Ontario and Quebec created the serious and unavoidable shortage of electricity."

Mr. Howe's speech was "just another example of his complete and well-known disregard for the truth," the former Ontario premier said.

School Patrols For Oak Bay Approved

The Greater Victoria School Board went on record at a meeting Monday night as favoring the establishment of school patrols in Oak Bay.

The motion regarding the subject came following a request of Oak Bay Municipality for an expression from the board on the offer of the Kiwanis Club to finance the setting up of school patrols similar to those now being operated in city schools.

Trustee M. P. Paine said that he considered it worthwhile to get the patrols throughout the Greater Victoria school system. He added that the training received by the pupils would serve them well in later life.

Second Strike Threatens Victoria Building Industry

A second strike threatened Victoria's construction industry today following the rejection Monday night by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Local 1598 of a majority conciliation board award.

The carpenters, according to a union spokesman, were almost unanimous in their rejection of a 7 1/2 cent an hour wage boost recommended by two Victoria lawyers, Lloyd G. McKenzie, board chairman, and John L. Clay, nominee of the employers.

After the rejecting of the majority award, which had earlier been accepted by the employers, the union, again almost unanimously, according to a spokesman, expressed willingness to strike if necessary to enforce its demands for a 15-cent an hour wage boost.

SUPERVISED STRIKE VOTE

The procedure of the union will probably be to await a short time and if no action is taken toward a settlement during that time to ask the provincial labor department to conduct a supervised strike vote.

A strike would tend to tie up the operations of 12 Victoria's largest contracting firms. They employ about 600 carpenters.

In the meantime it was learned that a second dispute between Victoria contractors and the carpenters' union may go to conciliation shortly. Involved in this dispute are a score of contractors and several hundred unionized carpenters.

Now on strike are members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against half a dozen Victoria electrical contracting firms.

In both cases the unions are striking to secure wage rates equal to those paid in Vancouver.

All Well With Elizabeth And Son; Relatives Shown

LONDON (AP)—All was reported well today with Princess Elizabeth and her new son as relatives gathered to peek at the two-day-old prince who may be the Commonwealth's next king.

Buckingham Palace spread the good news in the third bulletin issued by the Royal physicians since the infant's birth Sunday night.

"Princess Elizabeth has had a good night and is making excellent progress," said the report. "The infant prince continues to do well."

The Princess was permitted to have her baby with her for a short while Monday.

There was no indication how soon she would be up. Elizabeth always has enjoyed exceptional good health and some source believe her stay in bed will not be prolonged.

As for the yet-named baby, doctors' opinions were not needed to persuade those who saw him that he was a "model" prince.

The youngest caller at the palace Monday was six-year-old Prince William of Gloucester, who trooped in with his mother, the Duchess of Gloucester. He bore a gift of red roses and a letter he had written to his 22-year-old cousin, Elizabeth. William was a page at the Royal wedding last year.

At the other extreme was 81-year-old Queen Mother Mary, who spent two hours at the palace. A great-grandmother for the first time, she was the first visitor after Sunday night's momentous announcement.

Princess Margaret, on an official mission in Sheffield, was reported eager to get back to see her nephew and personally congratulate her sister and brother-in-law, Philip.

Appearing on the stage at Sheffield's pageant of production Monday night, Margaret said: "I shall never forget the good news of my sister's baby. I shall never forget the way you have shared my happiness today."

Vancouver Chinese Want To Gamble

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney-General Gordon Wismer would be asked today to grant legalized gambling privileges to Chinese in Vancouver, it was learned in police court Monday.

Appearing in court on behalf of 11 Chinese charged with gambling house inmates, Lawyer Ian Cameron told Magistrate MacKenzie Matheson of plans to place the matter with the Attorney-General's Department. He said laws which restricted Chinese from obtaining club licenses were "contrary to justice."

Poet Laureate Pens Birthday Quatrain

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Poet Laureate, John Masefield, today paid tribute to Princess Elizabeth's son with a simple quatrain.

Titled "A Hope for the Newly-born," it reads:

"May destiny, allotting what befalls,
"Grant to the newly-born this saving grace,
"A guard more sure than ships and fortress-walls.
"The loyal love and service of a race."

It was published in The Times of London.

Peace Talks In U.S. West Coast Strike On 76th Day

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Peace talks continued in the west coast shipping strike today as the tie-up entered its 76th day.

Waterfront employers and Harry Bridges' C.I.O. longshoremen scheduled another meeting after a "technical discussion" of the issues at their first night session Monday.

The unaffiliated marine firemen, another of the five unions involved, were to meet the ship-owners today for further talks. Also joining negotiations were the C.I.O. marine cooks and stewards. They asked improved wages and living conditions aboard ships and a 2½-year contract to end June 15, 1951.

In the longshore talks, negotiators Monday reported preliminary agreement on a nine-hour day, instead of a 10-hour longshoremen's day, and at least four hours' pay for any man reporting for work.

The union-controlled hiring hall, a primary issue in the strike, was under discussion Monday night. The longshoremen seek a 15 cent wage boost to $1.82 an hour.

Some 28,000 longshoremen and seagoing men have been made idle by the strike which began Sept. 2. Long-stalled negotiations were resumed last week.

Camp Given Over To Airlift Men

FRANKFURT (AP)—U.S. soldiers entered the Zeilshelm displaced persons camp today with orders to evict all persons who had ignored a previous evacuation order. They found the last occupants had departed during the night. It was planned tentatively to use Zeilshelm to house dependents of air-lift personnel.

South Okanagan Trail By-elections Campaigns Warm Up

TRAIL (CP)—The Nov. 29 election day still is about two weeks away, but already indications point to a knock-down, drag-out battle between rival factions for the provincial riding of Rossland-Trail.

The vacancy was caused by the death of Coalition member James L. Webster. Douglas Turnbull is the Coalition candidate and James Quinn is C.C.F. standard bearer.

Mrs. Nancy Hodges, Victoria Coalition member, already has launched a speaking tour in support of Mr. Turnbull and was joined Monday by Works Minister E. C. Carson.

PENSIONERS INCREASE

Mrs. Hodges said there would be 23,000 old age pensioners in B.C. at year's end. Cost of supporting the $40 monthly old age pension would be $5,000,000 for 1948-49—about double the cost of the last fiscal year.

She said the number of those receiving social aid in the province was growing. A year ago there were 10,300, and now 13,000 persons received social aid.

Mrs. Hodges said the mothers' allowance in B.C. had been raised twice within a little more than a year and now was the highest in Canada.

"You can't do these things with chicken feed. They've got to be paid for."

Referring to the Industrial Conciliation Act, she said only one strike had occurred in B.C. this year. More than 160 conciliation boards had been appointed.

H. W. Herridge, member of Parliament for Kootenay West, and Sam Guthrie, Cowichan-Newcastle M.L.A., are campaigning in support of Mr. Quinn.

Hon. C. M. Fines, Saskatchewan's provincial treasurer; Harold Winch, C.C.F. leader in B.C., and Herbert Gargrave, M.L.A. for Mackenzie, have announced scheduled in support of their party's candidate.

Premier Byron Johnson, after a radio address from Vancouver Monday night, proceeded to the interior.

Conservative leader Herbert Anscomb will join him next week and they will speak together at public meetings in Rossland-Trail and in South Okanagan where there also is a by-election Nov. 29.

Vincent Massey One Of 2,200 Delayed

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (CP)—Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, former Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, was among 2,200 passengers whose departure aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth was delayed today by the longshoremen's strike in the United States.

The strike, which has tied up American east coast ports, has resulted in longshoremen at Halifax refusing to work ships which normally would dock in the strike area.

The Queen Elizabeth was to have sailed today for Halifax but officials of the Cunard White Star Line said the sailing had been postponed indefinitely.

(There was no indication today of a break in the strike of 65,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association (A.F.L.). The union is demanding an increase of 50 cents an hour and welfare benefits. The employers have agreed to 10 and 15-cent boosts, which would raise the day shift straight time pay from $1.75 to $1.85 an hour and the night and week-end overtime pay from $2.62½ to $2.77½.)

Big Machine Crushes Car, Killing Five

MOSES LAKE, Wash. (AP)—A giant 40-ton earth-moving machine and an automobile collided Monday, killing five occupants of the car. The crash wiped out the children of two families and their mothers, Mrs. Eva M. Harris, 27, and Mrs. Susan Wanzler, 19.

Witness At Murder Trial Testifies Woman Screamed

Mrs. Mary Humble testifying at the trial of Jacob E. Wied, 38, charged with the murder of his wife, Evelyn, told an Assize Court jury today that she heard a woman's scream on the afternoon of July 17.

Mrs. Wied died in the Royal Jubilee Hospital after she was found by police in her one-room suite, 1025 Yates Street, bleeding from a knife wound.

Mrs. Humble who occupied with her husband the adjoining room, said she heard two screams and the breaking of plates and saucers.

She testified that she first heard someone enter the room. Fifteen minutes later another person entered a room.

"I heard them arguing," she said. "There was some movement of furniture and the breaking of plates."

She said five minutes after the first scream, she heard another scream, which she described as "terrific."

According to Mrs. Humble she had known the couple for about two weeks and was only on speaking terms with them. Prior to the incident, she said, she had been informed that the Wieds were leaving their apartment.

Mrs. Humble said when police were taking Mrs. Wied to hospital she heard the injured woman ask if "Jake was coming along."

Another witness, John T. White, a waiter at the club, estimated that Mrs. Wied drank about eight bottles of beer during the afternoon at the club. She did not have any hard liquor, he said.

Mr. Wied drank about six or seven bottles of beer, he added, and before leaving had two double hot rums.

Among other witnesses heard were Neil Butler and Irving Strickland.

The case is continuing. Patrick J. Sinnott is counsel for the accused. The Crown is represented by W. H. M. Haldane and Lloyd McKenzie.

"Problems and Experiences in Municipal Engineering," including preliminary studies in the Gorge Canal project, will be the subject of an address by H. D. ## What kind of world will your children inherit?

• Probably it will be a better world in every way.

Certainly it will be a healthier world. For science is working ceaselessly to devise more effective ways of treating and preventing disease.

But the task is enormous—and costly. That is why the life insurance companies in Canada have contributed large sums of money for many years toward the work of medical science—particularly in the field of preventive research.

As a result, more men and women are enabled to work in well-equipped laboratories waging war against cancer, tuberculosis and polio. More facts are being discovered in order to promote better nutrition, prenatal care and dental hygiene. And, the skill and devotion which these scientists bring to their work promises new freedom from disease in years to come.

By supporting their efforts, the life insurance companies help to raise the health standard of the nation.

By owning life insurance, you help to create a healthier world for your children.

GOOD FAITH NEEDED, TOO

THE REQUEST OF TWO HIGH UNITED
Nations officials, Secretary-General Trygve Lie and Herbert V. Evatt, president of the General Assembly, to the leaders of the four major powers to get together and solve the problems arising from the Berlin blockade, is one that in intent will appeal to most of the common people of the world. No intelligent person wants war. Any hopeful move to settle international disagreement without resort to force will be welcomed by the "little man" of all countries. Yet there are one or two aspects of the present suggestion which indicate that this mode of procedure may not be the most likely to achieve success.

The Evatt-Lie proposal to Messrs. Truman, Attlee, Stalin and Queuille is viewed by the three western nations as running counter to their insistence that further talks shall not take place while the Berlin blockade is still imposed by Russia. To participate under such conditions, they hold, is to negotiate under duress—a circumstance to which free nations feel no need to submit. The ban on road and rail traffic across the section of Soviet occupation zone that lies between Berlin and the territory occupied by the western allies was arbitrarily imposed by Russia. While it exists it constitutes a menace to world peace. It could be easily lifted by the men of the Kremlin if their desire for peace were greater than their desire to secure political advantage by holding as hostage the lives of 2,500,000 Berliners.

A second consideration in this regard may be found in a review of previous four-power talks. Whether held in London, Moscow, Paris or elsewhere, they have not been productive of concrete results. When diplomats of the three leading western democracies left Moscow recently, for instance, they had every reason to believe that the Berlin problem had been solved. Prime Minister Stalin himself concurred in the solution, and the talks came to an end with a full understanding that only minor questions of procedure remained to be settled by lesser officials at the scene of the blockade. It was at this point that the Russian military commander in Berlin imposed conditions of settlement that completely negated the long hours of conference in Moscow. Obviously, he could not have been acting on his own authority; he must have stalled the settlement on orders from the Kremlin. Thus it is that the peoples of the West have become somewhat wary of proposals for "get-togethers" with Soviet Union leaders. They have seen Moscow protestations of co-operation and goodwill end too often in actions that belie the words.

CANDIDATES AND TAXES

IN THE APPROXIMATELY THREE weeks that remain before civic election day, voters of Victoria will be introduced to candidates who solicit their support at the polls, and who, to that honest end, will outline to the public the platforms on which they stand. This is normal procedure. At this time, however, it becomes increasingly important that those who aspire to office should inform the electorate of the positions they adopt in respect of civic finance.

When the City Council of 1948 opened its budget discussions, it was confronted with, and accepted, the unusual suggestion that it first strike the mill rate and then cut its estimates to conform to the revenue that would be raised on the arbitrarily set figure. As the year progressed, it became apparent that insufficient funds were available for contingencies. It became necessary, for instance, to borrow to finance work which, in part at least, was of a maintenance character. That, coupled with major capital outlays, including the arena, added to the burden of civic debt. The taxpayer, if he studied the question at all, found that the dollar he paid to the city was immediately subjected to a deduction of more than 20 cents to meet debt charges. As the borrowings increased, the percentage of his dollar earmarked for that specific purpose rose, and the amount left for the financing of more constructive enterprise dwindled.

This was the situation disclosed in clear lines by the financing policies of 1948—one of the years of extremely high revenue to the city. What do those who seek office and those who are continuing in office plan for next year? Are they to wed themselves to the theory that the citizens are shouldering as much as they can bear in the way of taxes, and pass on the burden of essential improvement and some phases of maintenance to future generations? Or are they intent this year on pursuing a courageous course of action which recognizes the availability of funds at this time and makes provision for the possibility that earning capacities in the future may be reduced and property owners left less able to carry the load than they are now?

Inevitably the people of Victoria will be presented the bill for expenditures to which they are now being committed. Is not this the time to make some provision at least for that reckoning while revenues are high? The day is past, it seems to us, when candidates may secure election by the expedient of promising to cut taxes—and taxes are in effect reduced when the rate does not go up while the purchasing value of the dollar declines. Our ratepayers are adult. They know they must pay for what they get. It thus behooves candidates to understand that point when they announce their platforms.

SERVICE ABOVE SELF

ALTHOUGH THE ACTUAL TRANSFER of authority by which Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent assumed the mantle of Prime Minister yesterday was effected without fanfare or pageantry, the significance of the change should bring to Canadians a clearer realization of the sense of obligation and responsibility with which men of his character enter office.

Seven years ago Mr. St. Laurent was a newcomer to the political field. He entered it at a time when his abilities in the legal realm were widely appreciated. As he assumed his new post he put greater distance between himself and that lucrative professional field which not infrequently rewards its outstanding practitioners with annual incomes reaching into six figures. In place of that financial return he will enjoy the relatively small emolument of the Prime Minister.

This, if it proves anything, should underscore the high sense of duty which has brought Mr. St. Laurent to his present position. And through it may be seen an object lesson for those narrow critics who are prone to suggest that men and women enter public life—municipal, provincial or Dominion—for what they can get out of it in the way of material possession. The new Prime Minister was virtually drafted into politics. He responded to the urgings of those who wished to see his talents applied to the broader field of national interest because he felt he had something to offer for the good of the people of Canada.

That is a point which is all too frequently ignored or forgotten by the majority of the public. It is this inclination to discount the good intent of honest men which gives to the word "politicians" an unpleasant stigma. The so-called critics fail to realize that the man or woman who enters public life does so with the knowledge that he or she will become the target of malicious attack, will be subject to demands often beyond the material rewards of his or her office, but, with relatively few exceptions, is nevertheless prompted to offer his or her services in a conscientious belief in the ability to make some contribution to the welfare of society.

Prime Minister St. Laurent furnishes the example. Though the satisfactions that come to him in his new post may be finer, more gratifying to him than those he has known, he unquestionably could have surrounded himself with greater material comforts had he chosen to remain a private citizen.

T.B. SEALS

ONCE AGAIN THAT INVITATION TO generosity which typifies the spirit of Christmas has been issued by the Soroptimist Club of Greater Victoria with the distribution through the malls of Christmas Seals. These are going out, in series of 200, to 20,000 households in this community. In return, the sponsors of the campaign are requesting remittances of two dollars from each recipient. Although they are not pressing in their requests, the officials in charge of the distribution hope that returns will be made early, before the annual festive season rush sets in and the message of the seals is temporarily forgotten. The committee further requests that payment be made by means of the addressed envelopes enclosed with each package of the decorative stickers to facilitate filing and indexing.

The purpose of the campaign, taken over in this district by the Victoria women's club, is well known. Funds raised by it help to fight the disease against which such gratifying progress has been made in recent years. The crusade is a costly one. Equipment, nursing service, health education, diagnosis, rehabilitation of former sufferers and the many details which go into its successful prosecution entail heavy expenditure. By each individual who buys the seals, assistance is given to a fine cause. The response should be immediate and open-handed.

NO BODY

IN S. J. PERELMAN'S NEW BOOK "Westward Ha!" caricaturist Hirschfeld has, among many intriguing drawings, presented two cartoons of "Hollywood Natives." One labelled "Female" is depicted by a frizzy haired, dark glasses, an Ascot tied, a fuzzy fur jacket, huge bag, short slacks, and thick-soled sandals in which only the lacquered toenails suggest the feet. The "Male" is similarly portrayed: curled hair, dark glasses, foulard carelessly knotted above the neck of a striped sweater, a broad-lapelled, big-checked sports jacket, slacks and wedgy shoes. Neither figure has any torso, face, hands or feet—merely clothes. The satire is biting.

It is easy enough to ridicule Hollywood in this way, to make its people all show and no body, to indicate the artificiality of the society synonymous with the United States moving picture industry. And continuous propaganda supports the thesis that is presented. On the other hand, we are led to wonder whether or not Hirschfeld might not have given his figures more universal application. When we laugh at the false values of Hollywood, are we not laughing at ourselves? Or are we too self-righteous for that?

Those with generous hearts must have something to love. If they can't marry, they must adopt a pet or a neighborhood.

Lesson For Fleets

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP
From Washington

ANOTHER Manhattan District is needed. That is the only possible conclusion from the shocking results of the United States Navy's recent Newfoundland war exercises. For those who missed the all too brief stories from the scene, the Newfoundland results may be summarized as follows:

The plan for the exercises was for a strong task force of 100 naval vessels to establish a bridgehead on the Newfoundland coast. The defensive role was assigned to eight Schnorkel-equipped submarines, modelled on the high-speed, long-range, radar-proof German Type 21. The eight defenders "sank" virtually the entire naval task force, and of course theoretically prevented the landing.

THE SIGNIFICANCE of these results lies in a single bleak and simple set of facts. The Soviet Navy is now primarily an undersea fleet. Under reparations the Soviets secured from Germany component parts, complete submarines and equipment for building the Type 21. According to the most sober official estimates, the Russians already have 100 of these craft in operation, as well as 100 short-range submarines for coastal defence, and 100 long-range submarines without Schnorkel or "breathing" equipment. Their program for building additional Type 21's is known to be important.

RUSSIAN NAVAL PLANNING is of course hampered by restriction to the Baltic, Black Sea, Arctic and Manchurian ports and Vladivostok. Even so, however, the Red Fleet is estimated to be capable of maintaining 35 Type 21's continuously at sea. But the Schnorkel-breathing device, radar-proofing, and great speed render these craft almost wholly immune to the old methods of anti-submarine warfare. Hence the fate of the Newfoundland task force. Hence, also, the conclusion that if war should come soon, 35 Type 21's would come perilously close to severing the vital sea supply lines across the Atlantic. Until this threat has been countered, all American strategic planning must be considered a mere gamble.

THE PICTURE is not all black, to be sure. A small number of vessels in the Newfoundland task force were especially equipped with new submarine detecting and destroying devices experimentally developed with the Type 21 in mind. While all but a small proportion of the total task force was "destroyed," all but about 15 per cent of the specially equipped vessels escaped the wolf pack's attacks. Thus there is already hope that the American Navy can regain the capability of defending itself and the sea supply lines that are its first responsibility.

On the other hand, a crucial question of investment priorities is obviously raised. The navy staff asserts that the capacities of the navy are being strained to the utmost, both to modernize the anti-submarine defenses of the fleet at sea, and to improve the new anti-submarine methods.

BUT IN FACT modernization is not like mere installation of new frigidaire in the fleet. Each vessel must be rebuilt at great cost, and since the new anti-submarine devices are still experimental, only a few vessels are being modernized. Furthermore, the authoritative Joint Research and Development Board by no means shares the navy staff view, that enough is being done about this most urgent of all American defence problems.

The funds being spent on anti-submarine research are invidiously compared with the funds allocated to certain other projects, such as the navy's giant carrier (which will be utterly useless, of course, unless it can be defended against anti-submarine attack). But the real differences of viewpoint between navy and J.R.D.B. apparently lies in the phrase above, "the capacities of the navy." The navy is undoubtedly doing all that any service can to counter the danger undersea. Unfortunately, however, any purely naval effort of this sort must always suffer from the peculiarities of service budgeting, the rigidity of business done through channels, and similar limitations.

IT WAS PRECISELY to remove these handicaps that President Roosevelt established the Manhattan District. The Manhattan District was under the leadership of army and navy officers, to be sure. But it was functionally independent. Neither the slowness of channels, nor competition from other bureaus, nor any of the other familiar phenomena of service administration, could diminish the scale of the Manhattan District's effort, or blunt the effect of its top priority. The argument for a similar project, and an effort on a similar scale, now seems to be unanswerable. American security demands no less.

Money can be no object, since the whole huge annual appropriation of the navy will have little value until this problem, submarine danger, has been removed. The job must be done at all costs and with all urgency.

MEANWHILE, only one stop-gap expedient is open. Immediate alliance with the Western European Union will permit immediate establishment of air and other bases overseas, and immediate stock-piling in Europe. In the present atmosphere, taking out this form of insurance is also urgent.

MEMORIAL ARENA

So the City Council has reversed itself again. But this time, every member of that body is aroused to the seriousness of the mistaken policy which has been followed, to the extent that there must be no more blunders, but utmost unity and co-operation in the policy and plan to complete the arena. In such an atmosphere as this, it ought to be possible to consider another and perhaps entirely fresh policy to complete the work on the arena. For what it is worth, we offer it, in the hope that where others have succeeded, Victoria may also prevail.

During the past summer, we passed through a city named Klamath Falls, Oregon. One of the service clubs of that community had organized a campaign to provide $350,000 for a Y.M.C.A., so much needed by that growing community. The business people of that small community had committed themselves to the payment of bonds for this worthy project. In addition, the boys and girls and young people, enthusiastic about the project, have subscribed to bonds of $25 and $50 each. These bonds are being paid in small weekly sums as low as 50 cents, through the banks. When these young people grow up to manhood and womanhood, they will be able to look back, with pride, on a successful accomplishment—a monument in their city to which they have contributed.

The people of Greater Victoria, all of them, enjoy good sport, and sportsmanship. Therefore, let us to the task of providing the money which is needed to complete the work on the arena, out of all our pockets, young and old—everybody in Greater Victoria gladly participating in the giving, so that it will in fact, become a Memorial Arena, to remember those who went from Saanich, from Oak Bay, from Esquimalt and the City of Victoria, with a common purpose to defeat the enemy and to save our democracy.

HARRY LANGLEY,

THAT AIRPARK

I write again only because, Mr. D. A. Stuart and Mr. B. J. Gadsden used my previous letter as a basis for discussing publicly, matters which are outside my theme of the proposed Gordon Head Memorial Airpark, and its relation to national defence.

It seems to me but fair that those of your readers who may be interested, should know that many of my neighbors and I have been both moral and, to a small extent, financial supporters of both Canadian Flying Clubs and the Air Cadets League, almost continuously since they were respectively organized. For this reason we are as pleased as anyone to hear of the new government subsidies for flying clubs.

Furthermore, if they would welcome us, a number of my neighbors and I should be happy to join the local flying club; always provided they do not intend to operate from the proposed Gordon Head Memorial Airpark. We believe that project to be morally wrong and technically unsound. For our money we would back the opinion, now supported by surveys, of Air Commodore Alan Hull, who said in a letter published in the press of this city "If I were in a responsible position and asked to recommend this area as an airport for use as an ab-initio flying training school, I would be reluctant to do so, because I would be frightened of the consequences."

I found it highly amusing to be the recipient of a lecture on "tolerance" by Mr. Gadsden. He who obviously approves the action of some members of the Victoria City Council, who support a minority group in their effort to indulge their selfish whims at the expense of a majority; and in the process assist in defying a zoning by-law of a neighboring municipality. In all his righteousness, I wonder what he thinks of the ethics of Victoria business men who sold residential properties in the affected areas, and on the basis of protection by existing zoning laws, and who now support the minority group seeking to change the zoning regulations.

Both Mr. Stuart and Mr. Gadsden have indicated that they believe the proposed Memorial Airpark will have the effect of bringing additional tourists to this city. What interpretation can be put on this other than that they and the airport supporters think it right and in good taste to link a memorial to our war dead with commercial gain?

NOBODY WOULD blame the worker for making the best case he can for himself or for getting the most for his effort. That is a normal and reasonable attitude. The tendency of certain leaders, however, who attempt to achieve their ends by creating dissatisfaction is a very dubious strategy.

POOR BASIS

To convince labor that it has been abused is not, we think, either in the public interest or in the best interests of labor itself. Prejudice is not a good basis for negotiation. It destroys the realization that wages must relate themselves to total costs. For, when goods are priced out of their market, mass unemployment begins.

A short while ago Don Radford, Regional Director of the C.I.L., made the categorical statement that "wages have never caught up with runaway prices, and living standards stand in danger of being lowered."

No one would doubt that Mr. Radford had the interests of labor at heart but we cannot believe that such unsupportable statements are in the interests of anyone. Certainly, the average mind would gather from this statement that wages had lagged far behind living costs and hence the worker was at a growing disadvantage. Such a statement and such a belief is not according to the book.

RAPID GAINS

Without considering the shorter working day—itself a form of wage increase—we find that wage rates have mounted astoundingly in the last decade. From the beginning of the century to 1946 they have increased generally 306%. From the beginning of the first great war to the present the advance has been phenomenal.

In the combined groups of workers in logging, coal and metal mining, manufacturing construction, water transportation, steam and electric railroads and telephones the worker's wage increase has been from an index of 53.2 in 1915, when wages were already beginning to feel the stimulus of war demands, to 154.6 in 1946. That is an increase of 190.6%.

Living costs, over the same period, rose from 67.3 in 1915 to 123.6 in 1946, an increase of 83.7%. That is, wages have increased twice as much as the cost of living. True, living costs have increased sharply since 1946, but so have wages and so has employment.

PRODUCTION GOVERNS

Labor should get all the wages possible, with these provisos. Let it be with a clear realization that the worker is making a gain. Let it be realized also that wages can only be what production permits. To press them beyond that possibility is to lose both job and wages. The wise worker will not let the orators delude him.

Must Be Ready

Calgary Herald

Talk about "peace-loving nations" is nothing but cant. The love of peace never built a nation, and the love of peace never maintained it. Any nation that wants to survive must be willing and ready to fight, and must keep that willingness and readiness in plain view.

The way this worried, grumpy old world of ours has been thrilling and chuckling over the birth of Princess Elizabeth's baby, I guess we don't need to worry about humanness being dead.

News bulletins literally circled the globe to record the event, beginning with the announcement that the handsome young princess, heirless presumptive to the throne, was in labor with her first child. From then on the story was unfolded step by step until it became known that it was a boy who one day likely will head the Commonwealth. Newspapers in many lands splashed the story on front pages.

Britain herself is in a state of delicious joy. Big displays, planned for weeks by cities, towns and hamlets, got under way. It is one of the greatest celebrations of its kind Britain has known.

And what is the significance of all this? First off, although the Communist upheaval has seen the disappearance of several more monarchies, we find British royalty apparently at the peak of popularity.

PEOPLE WANT IT

The Royal family is in Buckingham Palace because the people want it there. In short, Britain likes the traditions and pomp and splendor which go with kingship.

However, Britain is changing and one suspects that it will be a different country over which the new Prince will rule if he comes to the throne many years hence. Trying to look ahead I should say that he may well preside over a middle-of-the-road democracy in which the class inequalities have been eliminated. The economy will be ironed out so that everybody will get a fair break. That's the direction in which the country seems to be travelling now.

NOT HEREDITARY

The nobility will be streamlined. Long before then the House of Lords will have been reformed, and likely will be composed of elected representatives instead of hereditary lords as at present. As a matter of fact, while nobility probably won't be abolished it will be awarded for merit solely and will not be passed on from father to son. That is, titles will be purely honorary and without special prerogatives.

And finally, if and when the new Prince is called to the throne he probably will be symbolic head of a different British Commonwealth of Nations. The Commonwealth thus far has been basically Anglo-Saxon but already is being modified to include other races which now make up the various parts of the Commonwealth.

And who can say but that this British Commonwealth—long before the Prince comes to the Throne—may be integrated with other democratic blocs which may approach the ideal of one world?

We think perhaps that's what the grown-up Prince may see. Long live the Prince!

WRONG ATTITUDES

A Chicago doctor says the way a person plays the game and his attitude towards it, rather than his age, should determine his exercise program. From the explosive sounds on the seventh green, it would appear that a lot of folks ought to change to ping pong.

MECHANIZED UTOPIA

N.E.A. Service

Because zippers offer quick relief from the onerous job of fastening buttons, snaps, buckles and such, their manufacture has grown into a $100,000,000-a-year industry. And because they also will get out of order at the most embarrassing and frustrating times, we now have a zipper repair tool which, its maker says, "is adjustable to 100 per cent of all zipper problems." We find all this encouraging. For the gadgets that make our lives simpler (and at the same time more complex) also make jobs.

If this keeps up the American citizen may reach the point where he carries more equipment than a telephone lineman. But that's probably a small price to pay for banishing the spectre of technological unemployment.

Visiting Cartoonist Deplores Blood And Thunder Comic Strips

William Ferguson, cartoonist, well-known through his syndicated feature, "This Curious World," believes the majority of present-day comic strips are not fit for children.

"Too much blood and thunder," said the friendly American who arrived Sunday. "No so long ago we would never have thought of depicting gun battles and villains holding blood-dripping knives."

Mr. Ferguson recalled that comic strips were originally created for children. Many of them now are fit only for grown-ups, he said.

The cartoonist said, however, that present-day trends were for a return to the former simple comic strips.

Mr. Ferguson is here to speak tonight at a meeting sponsored by the Victoria Natural History Society and National Audubon Society at the Prince Robert House at 8.

A strong conservationist, Mr. Ferguson deplored the shooting of hawks and owls by farmers and hunters.

4 Municipalities Here To Receive $230,000 Of $2,000,000 Grant

The four municipalities of Greater Victoria will receive roughly $230,000 as their share of the $2,000,000 sales tax revenue which the provincial government will distribute to the 90 odd municipalities of British Columbia Dec. 15, it was estimated Monday.

When the details of the tax law were being worked out Finance Minister Herbert Asquith gave the municipalities an estimate of what proportion of any sales tax revenue distributed to the municipalities each municipality could expect.

Victoria, according to this estimate made last spring, would receive 6.6111 per cent of the total. This represents $132,222. Victoria had budgeted to receive $154,000 from the tax this year.

Saanich, which budgeted for $45,000 sales tax revenue, will receive almost $60,000 as its share of the $2,000,000, Oak Bay, which did not budget for any sales tax revenue this year, will receive about $26,500. Esquimalt's share will be $11,700.

Estimates of sums which other Vancouver Island municipalities will receive are as follows: Alberni $6,300, Courtenay $5,212, Cumberland $2,498, Duncan $7,366, Ladysmith $4,932, Nanaimo $16,608, Port Alberni $17,760, North Cowichan $13,100, Alert Bay $812, Comox $1,394, Lake Cowichan $1,998, Parksville $930, Qualicum Beach $1,094 and Tofino $548.

Accused Committed To Higher Court

Leo Allen, charged in city police court with breaking and entering the Victoria Beauty and Barber Supply Company premises, 747 View Street, on Oct. 22, was committed for trial in higher court by Magistrate N. C. Hall Monday.

Const. John Birch of the city police force testified he had apprehended the accused with his arm through a hole in the window of the front door of the store with a piece of glass in the other hand.

He added that investigation revealed two panes of glass had been broken in rear windows and a key which did not fit had been found in a rear door which bore a heel mark.

Const. Robert Morris and George Buckle gave supporting evidence. The former told the court that he had taken glass and wood bits from the trouser cuffs of the accused at the city jail, but that there was not enough for Inspector J. F. Vance, Vancouver criminologist, to identify them as being from the broken window of the View Street store.

Joseph McKenna, appearing for the accused, cross-examined each witness at length.

Battle Over U.S. Farm Prices Looms

WASHINGTON (CP) — Some Washington observers predict a new fight over farm price supports when Congress reconvenes in January.

The government's complicated, costly formula for maintaining the levels of farm-product prices has the support of Democrat farm leaders in both the Senate and the House of Representatives.

But the United States' two biggest farm organizations are on record in favor of a sliding-scale price-support bill scheduled to go into effect Jan. 1, 1950.

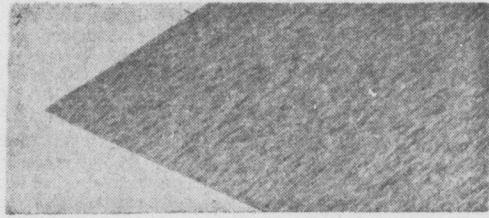

The existing regulations are aimed at keeping the actual buying power of farm production right where it was during a specific period, in most cases 1909-1914. They put a floor under prices equal to 90 per cent of that parity figure. Commodities affected include corn, wheat, oats, rice, cotton and tobacco. What a farmer gets now for a bushel of wheat is intended to buy for him about 90 per cent of what he could buy in the base period by selling the same amount of grain.

Province Reserves Six More Park Areas

The provincial government has set aside for park purposes six more areas of the province. The new park areas are as follows:

1. A lot northeast of Comox.
2. A small island, known as Idol Island, in Houston Passage, west of Salt Spring Island.
3. The southeast quarter of section 9 at Gillies Bay, Texada Island.
4. Six lots at Fruitvale.
5. 122 acres on Roserim Lake.
6. 160 acres including hot springs and a lot west of Canoe River 20 miles southeast from Valemont.

To Vote Dec. 9 On New Arena Plan; Engineer Says $265,000 Enough

The ratepayers of Victoria will vote at the Dec. 9 civic elections on the borrowing of $265,000 for completing construction, furnishing and equipping the Memorial Arena.

City Council set the wheels in motion during another lengthy arena discussion Monday which will bring the money borrowing by-law into the polling booths.

Acting Mayor Ed Williams and all but one alderman accepted the $265,000 estimate for completing the rink for operation, made by Charles T. Hamilton, Vancouver, consulting engineer in the building of the arena.

SKILLINGS OPPOSED

The dissenting vote was cast by Ald. Waldo Skillings, arena committee chairman who "inherited" the position when he took office at the beginning of the year.

Mr. Hamilton's estimate was based on the city continuing as its own contractor, which is the probable outcome.

Ald. Skillings was not happy with that thought. "I am doubtful that the city can construct this project for any amount less than a general contractor could," he said. "And remember, all these figures submitted today are estimates only."

He got his way when it was decided to call for tenders again for completion of the rink.

It is not expected any bids will be received in view of the lack of response given two weeks ago to an advertisement for tenders.

It was agreed though, that it might be good psychology to give private contractors another chance to relieve the city of the contracting job it undertook at the beginning of the year.

If no tenders are received, or if any received are not satisfactory, the city automatically will continue as contractor.

ESTIMATE BROKEN DOWN

Mr. Hamilton's $265,000 estimate was broken down into two main figures, $175,000 for construction work and $90,000 for furnishings and extras.

The "extras" include $10,000 as the cost of marketing the $325,000 bond issue which the ratepayers authorized in the spring; $450 for cost of printing the bonds; $1,000 for laying a black-top driveway into the rink; $3,400 for an escalator clause in the contract of the Canadian Ice Machine Company; $1,431 for sales tax on another contract; $27,000 fees and expenses for Mr. Hamilton, and other smaller items.

Mr. Hamilton allowed $17,850 for furnishings, including $1,300 for furniture; $11,500 for refreshment rooms; $50 for player records; $5,000 for skates to be rented.

The $175,000 for construction work is more than ample, Mr. Hamilton stressed.

"I fully believe we can cut that down, but I am not prepared to say at this time by how much," the engineer said.

MUST OVER-ESTIMATE

He thought that in view of what had happened in the past it was necessary to over-estimate.

"Conditions are changing all the time, and if we don't have to spend the money, all well and good," he said.

He said the estimate allowed for a possible increase of 15 cents an hour to carpenters.

The $175,000 figure was arrived at from the same plans and specifications on which a $195,780 tender was received two weeks ago from a Victoria contracting firm. The tender was thrown out at a meeting of the council a week ago.

The question of making available funds for the arena commission, or board of management, to start operating the rink, was raised by Ald. M. Aubrey Kent, a member of the arena committee. But he did not get anywhere with his suggestion, most aldermen believing a sufficient amount of money would be left over from the $265,000.

"And besides the arena is going to be a paying proposition anyway," said Acting Mayor Williams.

No 'Hedging' On Property Lines

Don't plant that hedge or ornamental tree on your property line! You may be required to uproot it.

The City Council on Monday approved a parks committee recommendation that a city statute be amended to make it unlawful for planting of hedges and trees on property lines.

It was explained that the hedges, in particular, soon grow and spread out, trespassing on neighboring property.

The amendment will set an 18-inch limit within property lines for hedges and trees.

Wants Arena Wall Finished Now

Acting Mayor Ed. Williams does not think it is wise to leave the south end of the Memorial Arena open to the weather and the critical eye of passers-by, but he got little support at Monday's meeting of the City Council on a proposal to rectify the condition.

He thought between $15,000 and $20,000 would be sufficient to complete construction of the south wall, which would close the building entirely.

And he thought the money could be "borrowed" from funds on hand for two sub-contracts which cannot be proceeded with until another money by-law is passed.

The letter was received and filed with contents noted.

"We could take that money and complete that end now," he said.

"It would eliminate an eyesore seen from the south, east and west. It would give needed protection to the ceiling of the rink as well."

Aldermen agreed with him in principle, but they balked at the idea of starting work again before the people vote on a money by-law.

Besides work crews have been disbanded and also it would complicate plans and specifications to be used in the calling for tenders to complete the structure.

Says Rink To Be Showman's Dream

The Memorial Arena will not have a removable wooden floor to cover the ice surface when it is not being used for skating events, but instead a polished cement floor.

This was made plain at the City Council meeting when some aldermen made it known they were "out in the blue" as to what uses the rink could be put.

Acting Mayor Ed. Williams said there were few events, sporting or otherwise, that the arena could not be used for. Basketball and box lacrosse could be played on the cement floor, it was stated.

And for shows, a sectionalized knocked-down stage could be erected at one end of the ice surface, although there was no provision for this in estimates of costs.

"That will be provided by shows desiring use of the arena, though," the acting mayor said.

Chairs could be borrowed or rented for seating on the floor in front of the stage for such functions, he added.

Charles T. Hamilton, consulting engineer in the building of the arena, said the rink would be "a showman's dream" with the facilities it will offer.

Far Eastern Problems Will Be Studied At Conference

Far Eastern problems will be studied at the 11th annual conference of the British Columbia branches of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs and the Northwest Division of the American Institute of Pacific Relations, to be held in the Empress Hotel, Victoria, from Nov. 19 to Nov. 21.

This year special attention will be given to the economic and political situation in China, Japan and Southeast Asia.

Among those who will take a leading part in the discussions are: The British Commonwealth Trade Commissioners stationed in Vancouver, the Vancouver Consuls for France and China; U.S. Consul in Victoria; two representatives of the Department of Defence, and several B.C. authorities on Far Eastern trade and northwest Pacific fisheries.

Among those coming from the United States are: Dr. Raymond B. Allen, president of Washington University; Dr. Frank G. Williston, associate professor, Far Eastern Department, Washington University, who will act as co-chairman of the political section of the conference; John Herber, director, Far-East-American Council of Commerce and Industry; H. S. Little, prominent Seattle attorney; Frank M. Tagmagna, foreign economist of the U.S. Federal Reserve System; Kline Swygard, professor of International Relations, University of Oregon; John M. Maki, professor of Japanese Government and Politics, University of Washington; Charles C. Stelle, acting director of Research, Department of State, Washington, D.C.; Howard M. Martin, director, Department of Geography, University of Washington; Sherman H. Lee, assistant director, Seattle Art Museum, who has just returned from service with the S.C.A.P.; Miss Joanna Eskstien, a delegate to the 1948 session of U.N.E.S.C.O.

William P. Hunt of New York, chairman of the China committee, Far East-America Council of Commerce and Industry, and Sir Robert Holland of Victoria, will be the guest speakers at the conference dinner Saturday evening, the subject of their talks will be "The Future of Private Enterprise in Asia" and "Unity of Spirit."

City To Keep After Sewage Nuisance

Question of Saanich sewage entering the city came before City Council again at its meeting Monday.

John Tribe, municipal clerk, stated in a letter that Saanich Council was fully aware that the present situation was not satisfactory.

"I have been instructed to advise you that when the Saanich engineer is able to complete plans for a system of sewers in the area concerned, the question will be presented to the ratepayers of the area and if approved by them, immediate steps will be taken to alleviate this situation," he wrote.

Ald. H. M. Diggon said he hoped the matter would not be buried and urged that the city keep the 1949 council of Saanich informed on the question. It was decided to refer the letter to the 1949 City Council.

Guide Lines For Fog-Bound Autos

Painting of white lines down the centres of streets as guides for motorists when fog blanks out the city, was recommended to the City Council Monday.

Police Commissioner Burges J. Gadsden said some assistance to fog-bound car drivers was needed now that streetcar rails have been removed from pavements.

"The main arteries into the city present the greatest hazard in fog due to the heavy traffic," he said in a letter referred to public works, "and a guide along the street until the start of cluster lights at least would provide great relief and probably eliminate many accidents during the winter."

Trees To Be Cut

More boulevard trees are to be felled by the city parks department.

The City Council on Monday approved the removal of alternate trees in the following locations:

On Blanshard Street between Queens Avenue and Hillside Avenue; on Elford Street between Fort and Begbie Streets; on Queens Avenue between Blanshard and Douglas Streets; on Richmond Road between Lillian and Fairfield Roads.

The council approved the expenditure of $500 by the parks department on repairs to the north fence of Royal Athletic Park damaged in the 70-mile-an-hour storm which raged recently.

Parksville Legion Hears Of Unrra

PARKSVILLE — Efforts of doctors and nurses in the prevention of epidemics in the congested areas of Bavaria and Austria were praised by F. A. King, a director of U.N.R.R.A. work in the areas, recently arrived from England, in a talk to members of Mr. Arrowsmith Branch, Canadian Legion.

In giving an outline of the work of U.N.R.R.A. in Europe, Mr. King said each team was supposed to consist of 13 workers including a doctor and nurse, but more often there would be only half that number to carry out the work.

In many cases, one of the biggest tasks the workers had, was to give the people who had lost their homes and even their countries, the will to live again, according to Mr. King, Canada, he said, contributed $158,738,000 to the cause of U.N.R.R.A.

Manslaughter Case Adjourned For Week

Preliminary hearing of Mrs. Phyllis Margaret McMurray, 850 Yates Street, who is charged with manslaughter over the traffic death Oct. 22 of 69-year-old Mrs. J. S. Fawcett, 885 Island Highway, opened in Provincial Police Court Monday and was adjourned until next Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hedstrom, neighbors of the deceased, testified Mrs. Fawcett had been visiting them during the afternoon and was heading for her home at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Hedstrom testified she watched Mrs. Fawcett approach the highway and stop just before reaching the hard-top surface. She testified that Mrs. Fawcett was not on the road when she was struck, but that the car that hit her swerved off the road. She said, after the impact the car returned to the road, swerved across to the other side and continued on its way for some distance before coming to a stop.

Mr. Hedstrom told the court the body of the accident victim was thrown a considerable distance by the impact.

Harold Fallas, 2008 Chambers Street, and Flora Kendall, who were riding in the accident car as passengers while Mrs. McMurray was driving, testified Mrs. Fawcett was standing on the edge of the road on their right. They said the car had turned toward her when they noticed another car making to come out of a driveway on the left.

Testimony by a Provincial Police constable said fresh tire marks were found 18 inches off the hard surface of the highway at the spot where the accident occurred. There was nothing to prove, however, these marks had been made by the accident car.

A 1937 Oldsmobile coupe was entered as a court exhibit as the car involved. Dents, believed to be caused by the accident, were found on the right front fender and on the right windshield post.

A. I. Thomas, J.P., is presiding over the court. Alec Pearson is acting as prosecutor and George Gregory is defence counsel.

DUNCAN—Request of district teachers for revision of the salary scale allowing $1,700 to $2,800 in the elementary schools and $2,100 to $3,500 in high schools was discussed at Duncan Consolidated School Board meeting.

Ladysmith Chamber Supports Nanaimo

LADYSMITH — Endorsement of two briefs from the Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce was given at a meeting of the Ladysmith Chamber here, at which Ian Humphries, vice-president, was chairman.

One brief dealt with the power of the Public Utilities Commission under the Motor Carriers' Act to refuse licenses to taxis and trucks and the other concerned a clause written into the Municipal Act, empowering a municipal council or village commission to refuse the granting of trade licenses.

The Nanaimo chamber felt that the move was interfering with free enterprise and had reached the stage where not only could a new applicant be refused, but a business established for years could be closed, as licenses were granted on a semi-annual or annual basis.

How television makes jobs for Canadians

The eye of the television camera is an image-orthicon tube. The heart of the receiving set is a cathode-ray tube. Most metal parts of these tubes are nickel or nickel alloys.

In television receivers there are also from 16 to 32 or more radio tubes of which the metal parts are nickel, nickel alloys or nickel coated. Nickel is also used in x-ray tubes and in long distance telephone systems, including those using the new coaxial cable.

Television has been developed through long and exhaustive research by individuals and manufacturers of electrical equipment, and in this research the International Nickel research laboratories have co-operated to the fullest extent.

The development of television has given rise to an entirely new market for Canadian Nickel. New jobs are created for Canadians both in the Nickel industry and in industries which make equipment containing Nickel.

Thus does research develop better products, create more employment.

"The Romance of Nickel" a 60-page book fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Beckerley, Jr., 3166 Quadra Street, and Jack Albert Gerald Smith, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Smith, 2965 Cedar Hill Road, Saturday evening.

Mrs. G. E. Fairbanks, as matron of honor, wore an ensemble in pink and green, with accessories of black and corsage bouquet of pink rosebuds. James Wilson stood with the groom as best man. ## Mrs. R. W. Mayhew To Attend Montreal Auction Of Sealskins

Victoria women will be unofficially represented tomorrow in Montreal when Mrs. Mayhew accompanies her husband, Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew to the last fur auction of the season, sponsored by the federal department of fisheries.

The federal fisheries department handles the sealskin business which brings more than $500,000 annually to the government treasury.

Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew has taken a keen interest in this phase of the department's activities since he took office. With Mrs. Mayhew he will be present when 3,356 Alaska sealskins will be knocked down by the auctioneer's hammer. This lot of pelts will bring the total offered to fur buyers at these Canadian sales this year to 12,641. All the skins were taken at the Pribilof Island rookeries in Bering Sea, most of them in 1947 but some in 1946.

The Pribilof seal herd, now numbering well over 3,000,000 animals, is protected by an agreement between Canada and the United States. The latter country supervises the killing of a limited number each year—about 70,000 annually in recent years—and Canada receives 20 per cent of the "take." From this year's operations Canada has received 14,028 skins. These are being processed and will be offered for sale by the department at Montreal fur auctions at various times next year. Since about eight skins are required to make one seal coat for milady's wardrobe, the demand far exceeds the yearly supply on the world markets.

New York Acclaims Canadian Star

NEW YORK (CP)—Canadian-born Allyn McLerie, the ingenue lead in "Where's Charley?" says "I couldn't make up my mind whether to be a dancer or an actress so I finally decided to be both."

In either capacity she's a standout.

A slender, attractive brunette with a soft, musical laugh, Miss McLerie began her professional stage career at 14, as a ballet dancer with the San Carlo Opera Company. She played in Toronto and Hamilton, Ont., during a six-week tour.

But the young actress—she's in her early 20's—was lured by the footlights from infancy. She told about her theatrical progress in an interview, after a matinee performance of "Where's Charley?" the musical version of "Charley's Aunt."

"I love the play," she said. "I like the part because it gives me a chance to do everything, not just dancing—singing, acting and comedy. It's my favorite role to date."

And for her performance she's received bouquets from the critics.

Allyn moved with her mother from Grand'mere, Que., to Brooklyn when she was three years old. Her father, Allan Gordon McLerie, a First World War flier who subsequently became the first man to fly a winter mail route in Canada, died shortly before his daughter was born. Allyn took piano and dancing lessons but when she was 11 decided to specialize in dancing. Practising the piano was too boring.

Dancer Allyn McLerie playing ingenue lead in current Broadway production, "Charley's Aunt."

In 1943, while still in high school, she danced in the ensemble of "One Touch of Venus" and once played Sono Osato's role. A year later she was understudy to Miss Osato in "On the Town." Eventually she took over the starring role—and married Adolph Green, a co-author of the musical.

After the show closed, fortune frowned. She was signed for another but it was never produced; she almost, but not quite, got into "Allegro" and "Park Avenue," and she appeared only briefly in "Bonanza Bound" which never reached Broadway.

A year ago she was dancing with John Butler at New York's fashionable Cotillion Room and making a success of it. But she ended that engagement because "ballroom dancing wasn't what I wanted to do."

Hollywood was next—"not for any special reason; I just got tired of not working." She sang and danced with Perry Como in "Words and Music," a film awaiting release.

Hollywood brought her new Broadway spot, too. It was there she met George Abbott, producer of "Where's Charley?" in which she now is playing.

Allyn is obviously thrilled by her success as the demure Amy Spettigue. No wonder. The critics called her "delightful," "versatile," "warm and graceful"—even "a sensation."

"I guess what I'm really interested in now is acting. I've done so much dancing already," she said when asked about her future plans.

Wife's Perfume Gives Ballet Director Production Idea

The Quelques Fleurs Ballet, which will be shown in Victoria is the only new production of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo this year. Its world premiere was held recently at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City and is being shown on a tour of leading cities, which will last until late spring in 1949.

The story behind the Quelques Fleurs Ballet goes back to Dec., 1947, when Pierre Harang, vice-president of Houbigant and Sergei Denham, director of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, met at a cocktail party. When Mr. Denham discovered that Mr. Harang was associated with Houbigant, he immediately inquired as to why he was unable to purchase Quelques Fleurs which had been Mrs. Denham's favorite fragrance for years.

He was told that when supplies of the particular essential oils used for Quelques Fleurs were curtailed in 1941, Houbigant discontinued this perfume rather than deviate from the original formula, and many who enjoyed Quelques Fleurs previously had to forego its pleasure.

The question proved of such great interest to Mr. Denham that his conversation with Mr. Harang dwelt exclusively on the subject of perfume for many hours.

Their discussion gave Mr. Denham an idea. Upon checking, he discovered that the essentially feminine subject of the power of a perfume and flowers had never been used as the basis for a ballet production and since it was such a natural one, he decided to attempt one. After much effort, a synopsis was written which he and his associates liked immensely and which was thoroughly adaptable to splendid choreography.

When it came to a title for the new production, Mr. Denham felt that Quelques Fleurs would be most appropriate if permission could be secured from Houbigant. It was, of course, and that is how the new Quelques Fleurs Ballet was born!

The ballet concerns the events at a garden party given by the Contessa Ilaria del Carretto—how she loves Zenobia Bonaventura, a gay young man of fashion—and by what means she endeavors to win his love. The theme explores the magic of perfume and all it can do to accomplish the purpose of a determined woman.

Although Quelques Fleurs perfume is not now available in Canada, Houbigant hopes that it will not be too long before it will return to the local scene. Meanwhile, the Ballet Russe has indeed made a fine tribute to a fine perfume.

Life has Changed for the Family Man

Most men live longer than their grandfathers. Women have a better life expectancy, too. So have children — not only that, but children nowadays spend more of their years getting an education.

These facts have brought significant changes in the family man's financial obligations. They mean that he must be prepared to support everyone in his family longer — including himself!

Fortunately, there is an effective way of meeting financial obligations of this nature — a well-planned insurance programme. Life insurance is a sure means by which a man can provide protection for his family in the event of his death or an income for himself should he live to retirement age.

The family man is wise to review his insurance requirements in view of changing conditions. If you would like expert advice, a representative of the Manufacturers Life will be glad to give it to you.

National Contributory Pensions, Only Solution, Claims Johnson

Premier Byron Johnson, reviewing in a radio address his stewardship since becoming premier more than 10 months ago, told British Columbians Monday night that he knew of only one solution to the pension problem — a national contributory insurance scheme.

"I have made representations to Ottawa in this regard," he said, "and I can assure you that I will continue to press for inauguration of such a scheme."

Speaking over CBC provincial stations Mr. Johnson described the sales tax and the hospital insurance scheme as the most important pieces of legislation effected during his first session as premier. He said that during that session the government was faced with two alternatives: either the curtailment of expenditures in all departments, including highway maintenance, education, and old-age pensions and social allowances; or increase the government's revenue.

"When one takes into consideration the tremendous development which is taking place in this province... I feel that you will agree with me when I say it would be difficult, and I think unwise, to curtail expenditures in maintaining our highways, or providing proper facilities for our children in our schools, withholding from those who administer our forest areas the funds to properly protect our great forest wealth, to curtail expenditures in our public health and welfare departments and finally to curtail our expenditures for old-age pensions and social assistance and mothers' pensions, at a time when we are enjoying the degree of employment and prosperity which we have at the present time," he said.

COST INCREASES

Mr. Johnson noted that in 1941 B.C., with 14,400 old-age pensioners, paid them $70,000. In 1948, with 25,000 pensioners the pensions will cost $4,500,000 and with the hospital services provided for pensioners the total cost will exceed $5,000,000.

The premier said that the estimated cost this year of the government's various social allowances was $8,197,000.

"The revenue which the provincial government receives under the social security and municipal aid tax is definitely allocated to the payment of pensions, mothers' allowances, social allowances and other social services, thus providing a degree of security for those receiving pensions or social assistance," he said.

"I think I am right when I say there are few persons who will disagree with the action of your government in placing the social security program on a sound basis which will give a reasonable assurance to our senior citizens and those who find themselves in the category of being unemployable that the present policy be maintained."

EXPANDING REVENUE

Mr. Johnson said that in allocating 1 per cent of the sales tax revenue to civic governments the municipalities would be placed in a position to carry out the many responsibilities which are the part of a civic administration, and with the increase in population and industry of the province they would have an expanding revenue.

"In order to bring a sense of security to people who will undoubtedly be confronted at some time in their life with hospital care, to wipe out the problem of unpaid hospital bills, to place these institutions (hospitals) on a sound financial basis, the government deemed it necessary to introduce an overall scheme of hospital insurance," he said. "We are confident that this plan will not only bring further security to the people but will place our hospitals on a sound financial basis."

At a future date, Mr. Johnson indicated, he would deal more extensively with the hospital insurance scheme, the Fraser Valley flood, the fight for removal of the mountain differential freight rate, the extension of the Pacific Great Eastern railway, industrial development and many other matters.

He described as unparalleled in B.C. history the current period of growth and industrial development. He welcomed those thousands of men, women and children who have come to B.C. during recent years "and who are doing their part in assisting in this development."

C.C.F. Renominates Dominion Leader

ROSETOWN, Sask. (CP)—A C.C.F. nominating convention Monday night named M. J. Coldwell, Dominion leader of the C.C.F., to contest the Rosetown-Biggar riding in the next federal election. Mr. Coldwell has held the seat since 1934.

Movie Industry Good As Ever, Says Ethel Barrymore

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—None other than Ethel Barrymore speaks out against those who claim the movie business is not in good shape.

"The picture industry is as good as ever," she says, pooh-poohing the pessimists. "They are always mumbling about something."

What about the theatre? "The theatre is not dead. They have been saying it was dead for 4 or 5,000 years. It's just propaganda."

Is money for plays harder to get?

"Let's say money is harder to get for anything. I hear they've even had trouble getting it for pictures."

What has happened to the great personalities of the theatre?

"They're still there. Always have been. There are just as many exciting personalities in the theatre as ever."

Is the road dead?

"I've never found it dead."

What about television?

"Millions of dollars say it will be great. I don't like it now, except for the games. When I can't get out to the football games, I like to catch them on my set."

Vaudeville? "Yes, it's dead. It's a great pity. It's a bad thing for people not to have vaudeville."

Would she return to the stage?

"I've not read anything I like yet. But I'm still reading."

CAPSULE REVIEW

"Joan of Arc" (R.K.O.) is a beautiful and touching film treatment of France's saviour. All the color and pageantry are there, plus much action and drama. The film sometimes leans to talkativeness, but this is offset by an inspired job by Ingrid Bergman, a joy to watch. The big supporting cast is fine, especially Jose Ferrer.

BURNABY (CP)—Gordon Henshaw, a 21-year-old Burnaby hunter, was drowned Monday in the Brunette River near here while attempting to rescue his dog from the rain-swollen stream.

Wearing hip waders, Henshaw walked into the water and apparently was dragged under by his gear. The dog reached shore safely, and stood guard over his master's coat on the river bank while Douglas McCallum, a hunting companion, ran a mile in wet clothing to seek aid.

Alleged Irregularities Among Government Officials Probed

LONDON (CP)—An alien using five different names was said to have thrown lavish parties and to have given free suits and sums of money to British ministers, as an inquiry began into alleged irregularities involving government officials.

In most cases the allegations were denied. Attorney-General Sir Hartley Shawcross Monday accused Sidney Stanley, also known as Solomon Wulkan, of being the individual "around whom, with one exception, the whole tangled web seems to have been spun."

Sir Hartley said investigators had not found enough evidence to warrant legal prosecutions. He made a four-hour statement before the special three-man inquiry tribunal set up by the House of Commons to investigate allegations that some officials had accepted bribes.

Allegations listed by the Attorney-General were:

1. Stanley had been paying £50 ($200) a week to John W. Belcher, parliamentary secretary to the Board of Trade, and occasional gifts of £100 to Belcher's wife, whom he called "Lulu."

Sir Hartley added, however, that this statement could not be corroborated elsewhere and that it was "strongly and indignantly denied by Mr. and Mrs. Belcher."

2. Stanley had taken Belcher, George Gibson, a director of the Bank of England, and Charles Key, Minister of Works, at various times to have suits of clothes tailored.

It was denied the suits were gifts.

3. Stanley gave a birthday party for Belcher. It was described as "somewhat lavish" and was said to have cost £80.

4. Part of Belcher's hotel bill at the Labor Party Conference at Margate, Kent, last May was paid by Stanley.

5. A suggestion that £5,000 was to be divided between Belcher and "Sir Arthur Soskice, the Solicitor-General," so that a prosecution against a firm of football pool betting promoters should be dropped.

Solicitor-General Soskice said there was not a word of truth in it.

Victoria Liberals Told To Honor Coalition Bond

Victoria Liberals were told Monday night to continue to hold up their end of the Coalition bargain and at the same time to prepare for a straight party fight. Both warnings came from the Victoria Liberal Association's president, Capt. J. D. Proudfoot.

"In any coalition there are naturally many restrictions which do not allow complete freedom of action," he told the association's annual meeting. "Like all compromises there must be in the Coalition a great deal of give and take."

"We, as good partners, must not by word or action, do anything to gain advantage for our party which would be considered slick politics."

MUST DECIDE

"It must always be remembered that we will have to go to the public for support on straight party lines at some time. It will be the duty of our leaders to explain their position in the Coalition government at a convention or executive meeting in the near future. It will be the duty and privilege of Liberals to decide when we should go to the country on straight party lines."

"I would like to repeat — we must honor our bond, and we expect our partners to do the same. I would like to add one thing on this matter of coalition—there has never been 'any fog' as to our place in the present Coalition."

Mr. Proudfoot admitted that "great dissension" between Liberal and Conservatives in the Coalition was heard, but he added that everything taking place in the Victoria association was "clean and above board."

"When you hear the Coalition being discussed," he warned, "keep your ears open and your mouth closed."

He warned that the C.C.F. opposition was awaiting any blunders which might be committed by the Coalition.

CAN GET OUT

"If the Conservatives are unhappy they can get out," he said. "We can carry the country at any time."

The association adopted a resolution which said "may the day soon come when Liberalism shall regain its rightful position in this province."

Mr. Proudfoot, predicting that 1949 would be an election year, asked for renewed efforts to build up the association and prepare for the fight.

Two Votes Necessary To Elect Treasurer For Liberals Here

The Victoria Liberal Association today has a new treasurer after two elections at the annual meeting Monday night.

The only office for which candidates were not elected by acclamation, the treasurer's office attracted two candidates: Earl Pollock, the incumbent, and Mrs. Blair Reid. Mrs. Reid won.

When the first ballots were counted it was found both candidates had received 44 votes.

Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, president of the association, suggested a second vote would be held.

"I challenge your decision," said one of the members. "The returning officer must cast the deciding vote."

"I'm in a bit of a spot," remarked J. A. Worthington, the returning officer. "Personally I'd rather not vote."

A delegate suggested that not all members had voted and they now be permitted to cast their ballots but this was ruled out because the polls had been closed.

Another suggestion, that Mr. Worthington choose a name from a hat, came from the floor but Mr. Proudfoot spurned this, saying: "This must be conducted properly."

Several persons searched the constitution for guidance.

Finally Mr. Worthington refused to cast the deciding ballot and Mr. Proudfoot called for a second vote. Mrs. Reid received 45 votes to Mr. Pollock's 42.

Mr. Proudfoot earlier had been formally returned as president. The new vice-presidents are Earl M. Briggs and Mrs. Linda Smith. Arthur H. Cox is continuing as secretary.

Honorary officers elected Monday night are: Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, former Prime Minister King, Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew and Premier Byron Johnson.

Resolutions of confidence in Mr. St. Laurent, Mr. Mayhew and Mr. Johnson, and a vote of thanks to Mr. King were passed.

Three Accidental Deaths In B.C.'s North-Centre Area

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—The violent death of three persons in the north-central section of British Columbia were reported here Monday.

A woman died in a logging camp cookhouse fire, a logger died from injuries when struck by a falling tree, and a child was killed by a 22 calibre shell from a rifle he picked up from the back of a parked truck.

Mrs. Raigs Freeman, 46, of Terrace, 100 miles northeast of here, died following a cookhouse explosion she set off when trying to light the fire with gasoline. The cookhouse and two other shacks in the little Haugland and Kerr camp at 12 mile on the Kalum Road were destroyed. Bruce Hopkins, a logger from Whitefox, Sask., died from injuries received Saturday when he was struck by a falling tree in the Matt and Widen logging camp near Telkwa, B.C., 60 miles northeast of here. An inquest was scheduled for today. The child, Clarence Romano Fowler, an eight-year-old Indian boy from Kitwanga, 50 miles northwest of here, was struck by a 22 calibre shell from a rifle held in the hands of a playmate, Ronnie Johnson.

Toronto's Winter Fair Opens With Records In Sight

TORONTO (CP)—The Royal Winter Fair started today amid predictions by officials that the 1948 edition of the world's biggest agricultural exposition will be bigger and better than ever. It will run until Nov. 24.

For the first time since the war, a French army cavalry team is here to compete in the Royal Horse Show. An army jumping team also came from Mexico to enter the lists against the Canadian and French champions.

This year's show promises to be more international than last year's and is expected to compare favorably in that respect with previous fairs. The Netherlands, for example, sent a 15-ton display of choice fruit and vegetables, including grapes and celery.

Keen competition is expected in grain exhibits and in livestock classes. Only the best of the animals entered will appear this season in the royal show ring.

Officials say that in other categories, such as poultry, pets, roots, vegetables, fruit and flowers, entries are well up to standard.

The R.C.M.P. unit which will perform its famous musical ride on beautiful, specially-trained horses, paraded through downtown streets Monday as a prelude to the opening of the fair.

Also held Monday in conjunction with the fair were the annual national judging contests for boys' and girls' farm clubs. Winning teams, by provinces, were: Quebec, dairy cattle, poultry and clothing projects; Ontario, beef cattle and swine; Manitoba, grain and food; and British Columbia, potatoes.

Living Cost Lower In England But Much Less Variety

The cost of living in Canada is higher than in England, but we have a great deal more variety, in the opinion of Bishop Harold E. Sexton.

Speaking before the Gyro Club at the Empress Hotel Monday, the bishop, recently returned from the Lambeth Conference in London, was giving a few impressions of England he received during his visit.

He commented on the visit of Princess Elizabeth to the conference—her last public appearance—and designated her as the "most charming person imaginable."

Bishop Sexton apparently did a little chamber of commerce work during his stay in Britain, for he stated that he expected many prominent visitors to come to Victoria in the future—including the bishops of York and Chester.

PEOPLE TIRED
"The people of England are tired, but still have their invincible spirit. There is little or no war talk, even although preparations are going on all around," the speaker said. He told of seeing badly damaged churches, but marveled at the fact that St. Paul's, right in the heart of London, received only two hits.

At the conference, held every 10 years at the home of the Archbishop of Canterbury, were 329 bishops from all over the world. They were of all races and color, Bishop Sexton said.

Student Teachers In Practice Work

Student-teachers at the Normal School here, 164 strong, on Monday started two weeks of practice teaching in first-grade classrooms of Greater Victoria schools.

This is the first practice-teaching session this term and before the new teachers have graduated next year, they will have spent two months in practical training.

The classroom work does not mean holidays for regular teachers. They remain on hand to lend a helping hand if needed.

High Costs Curb U.B.C. Plans, Says Education Minister

Education Minister W. T. Straith, explaining some of the difficulties of providing educational opportunities in British Columbia, told the Victoria Liberal Association Monday night that plans to develop the University of British Columbia were falling far short of their goal because of raising building costs.

Several years ago, Mr. Straith recalled, the provincial government appropriated $5,000,000 for buildings on the campus. Because of increases in building costs since then plans for a women's dormitory, an arts building and a domestic science building have been dropped.

The original university cost less than $5,000,000, he said. The $5,000,000 appropriated several years ago now is fairly well used up.

The next major construction on the campus, he indicated, would be the medical building, the home for the new medical school.

Mr. Straith warned that the long-advocated medical school would cost $350,000 annually to administer and would prove the most expensive faculty although providing only 50 graduates per year. The school is expected to be started in the fall of next year.

SPECIAL ENROLLMENT

The university of B.C., he said, now was the second largest in Canada and surprisingly the civilian enrollment this year was up 13 per cent to 5,500 over last year, although the veteran registration was down. He expected that the enrollment would level off at 6,000 from the current 8,000.

Mr. Straith told the province's effort to provide equality of educational opportunity throughout the province and told how in the north the starting of schools and dormitories to house students at these schools had attracted many more students than had been expected.

Arthur Cox To Attend Ottawa Liberal Meeting

Arthur H. Cox, secretary of the Victoria Liberal Association, will leave Victoria Thursday for eastern Canada to attend, among other business, a meeting of the national executive of the Liberal Party. The meeting will be held in Ottawa Nov. 29. Mr. Cox is a member of the national executive.

Pay Increases, Better Pensions To Be Sought By Island Teachers

Vancouver Island teachers at the concluding session of their second annual convention here went on record as believing increases in teachers' salaries are warranted and that teachers' service pensions should be raised.

After it was pointed out the cost of living has increased considerably since the current salary grant scale of the department of education came into being, the teachers voted overwhelmingly in favor of having the B.C. Teachers' Federation press the provincial government to bring the salary grant scale up-to-date.

The meeting was informed local school boards throughout the province were reluctant to make adequate increases in teachers' salaries while grants from the education department remained unchanged.

Stan Evans, assistant general secretary of the provincial federation, told the meeting the federation executive was looking into the matter of pressing for a general increase in the present minimum annual salaries for teachers.

He said one plan now being considered called for minimum salaries ranging from $1,650 to $3,000 for elementary school teachers possessing their first class certificates and minimum salaries ranging from $2,000 to $3,800 for secondary school teachers possessing their academic certificates.

PENSIONS

On the subject of pensions, Mr. Evans declared present service pensions were entirely inadequate, and maintained the current scale should be revised to allow increases.

Following this, the meeting voted in favor of pressing for the establishment of $40 a month pensions for retired persons who are single and pensions of $80 a month for those with dependents.

Under existing legislation, women teachers retire at age 60 and men teachers at 65. Mr. Evans said teachers who retire before they reach these ages forfeit much of their pension money.

He contended this was not fair since pension money was really a reserve portion of a salary which had been earned.

He said also that teachers who pass the retirement age and continue teaching forfeit some or all of their pensions if they earn more than $150 a month, while those who work at jobs other than teaching receive the full amount.

PLAZA THEATRE

J. G. Reeder, Edgar Wallace's fascinating bank detective, is hot on the trail again, at the Plaza Theatre, tracking down the head of a nation-wide ring of highly successful counterfeiters in "The Mystery of Room 13."

Reeder, one of the most unusual of fictional sleuths, proves to be an even more engaging person on the screen than he has ever been in any of Wallace's many excellent stories about him. This is, of course, no reflection on Wallace's creation, but, rather, special commendation to Director Norman Lee and Gibb McLaughlin, who plays the role in this Alliance picture.

Victoria Group To Sail Soon As Strike Breaking

Eighteen Canadian Chinese and East Indians whose visit to their native lands has been delayed by more than three months by the maritime strike on the U.S. Pacific coast, will shortly be able to make their home visit, according to present indications of settlement of the strike, it was reported today by C. E. Blaney, of Capital Travel Service, travel agents.

Mr. Blaney said today he had been advised by the American President Lines that the Pacific coast maritime strike was showing signs of breaking and the company expected its first ship, the General Meigs, to sail for the Far East No. 26, or seven days after termination of the strike.

The General Meigs will sail from San Francisco for the Far East, via Honolulu, and will call at Yokohama, Shanghai, Hongkong and Manila. The other three passenger ships of the line will sail at intervals thereafter.

The Victoria group of Canadian, Chinese and East Indians was first scheduled to sail from San Francisco, Sept. 6, but the sailing was canceled owing to the strike.

Senator Macdonald Of P.E.I. Dies In His 76th Year

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Senator J. Alexander Macdonald, 75, died Monday at his home in nearby Cardigan. A senator since July, 1935, he had previously served as a Conservative member of the House of Commons for Kings. Death was due to a heart attack.

Born at Tracadie, P.E.I., April 12, 1874, he was the son of Scottish parents. He became a merchant and produce exporter, as president of J. A. Macdonald and Co. Ltd. at Cardigan and president of Associated Shippers Inc. at Charlottetown.

He was also director of the Cardigan Electric Co. Ltd., Cardigan Silver Fox Co. and Georgetown Fish Co. Ltd.

His political career began with his election as a Conservative to the Prince Edward Island Legislature in 1908.

He was elected to the House of Commons in the 1925 general election to represent Kings. He was sworn in as a Privy Councillor and appointed a minister without portfolio in the Conservative cabinet of 1926. He was re-elected in the 1926 and 1930 general elections and was again appointed minister without portfolio in the 1930 cabinet.

A Roman Catholic, he was married in 1905 to Marie J. Macdonald, daughter of Capt. Joseph Macdonald of Cardigan. There are eight children.

The death of Senator Macdonald raised the vacancies in the Upper House to 15.

Kingscote Commands Sea Cadet Corps

Cmdr. R. P. Kingscote, R.C.N. (Retired), takes over temporary command of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps here, it was reported today by officials of the Navy League of Canada.

Cmdr. Kingscote assumes command of the R.C.S.C. following retirement of Lieut. Cmdr. C. R. Powell, R.C.S.C. commanding officer.

A special meeting was held at the end of last week to thank Lieut. Cmdr. Powell for his services to the corps. He was presented with an inscribed silver cigarette case by Denis Brown, sea cadet co-ordinator for the Vancouver Island division of the Navy League of Canada, on behalf of the division.

ATLAS THEATRE

Fred MacMurray is celebrating his fourteenth year in pictures by playing his 50th screen role in Russell Janney's "The Miracle of the Bells" for RKO radio release now showing at the Atlas Theatre.

His current part as a press agent in the screen version of the best-seller novel marks the first time the publicity-shy MacMurray has appeared as a "back," the name by which publicists are popularly known within the entertainment world.

YORK THEATRE

Twentieth Century-Fox's sensational use of the semi-documentary technique calling for on-the-spot filming of real-life stories, brought with it a casting innovation that is adding a great deal to the all-over effect of realism. Believing that new faces would add to the realism of "The Iron Curtain," a factual film about international espionage, now showing at the York Theatre, the studio imported five character actors from the New York stage to play the principal supporting roles to Dana Andrews and Gene Tierney.

CAPITOL THEATRE

A sensational new dancing star, Penny Edwards, bows in Warner Bros.' laugh-provoking musical, "Two Guys From Texas," Dennis Morgan-Jack Carson Technicolor starrer now at the Capitol Theatre.

She hails from the Broadway musical stage, danced and sang in Cole Porter's "Let's Face It"; Ziegfeld Follies; the Olsen and Johnson madcap entertainment, "Laffing Room Only," and other smash musicals. For style and personality, Miss Edwards has been considered by Hollywood insiders to be in the class with Marilyn Miller, June Haver, Lucille Bremer and Eleanor Powell.

CRUSADE IN EUROPE

Sicilian Campaign Finished Mussolini; Monty Invades Italy

by Dwight D. Eisenhower

This is a condensed serialization of Dwight D. Eisenhower's "Crusade in Europe." It contains highlights of the book to be published November 22, 1948, by Doubleday & Company. Copyrighted by Doubleday & Company, Inc.

BOOMERANG—Members of a British coastal defense unit man a gun commanding the harbor of Syracuse in Sicily. It was one of the many guns captured in good firing condition when the seat of ancient power was taken by the Allies.

X
The first troops scheduled to reach Sicily were the airborne contingents. The route of some of these lay directly across Malta and a number of us went out on the hill-tops to watch them pass. In the wind and storm it was difficult for them to keep direction.

Our plotting board in the air operations room showed that many planes and tanks were blown far off course, but generally the columns kept on target and when the one we were watching had passed overhead, we returned to headquarters to await reports. Most of us turned in to catch a few hours of sleep.

The first messages in the morning were a mixture of good and bad. A number of the gliders participating in the airborne attack on the British front had been cast loose too far from their targets and the high wind had dropped some into the sea. We feared a heavy loss of life and, though statistics later showed that casualties were less than we feared, it was still a tragic incident. On both flanks the landings from the sea seemed to be proceeding well with only moderate opposition.

Up to the moment no amphibious attack in history had approached this one in size. Along miles of coast line there were hundreds of vessels and small boats afloat and anti-aircraft guns were firing troops ashore. Overhead were flights of protecting fighters.

Patton pushed vigorously forward to the center of the island, while with his extreme left flank he threw mobile columns around the western perimeter of the island, entering Palermo within 12 days after the initial landing.

Speed Upsets Enemy, Exploits Advantages

He was a shrewd student of warfare who always clearly appreciated the value of speed in the conduct of operations. Speed of movement often enables troops to minimize any advantage the enemy may temporarily gain but, more important, speed makes possible the full exploitation of every favorable opportunity and prevents the enemy from readjusting his forces to meet successive attacks.

Patton employed these tactics relentlessly, and thus not only minimized casualties but shook the whole Italian government so forcibly that Mussolini toppled from his position of power in late July.

By the end of July the Italian garrison, except for a few small elements under the direct domination of their German overlords, had entirely quit, but along the great saw-toothed ridge of which the center was Mount Etna the German garrison was fighting skillfully and savagely. Panzer and paratroop elements here were among the best we encountered in the war, and each position won was gained only through the complete destruction of the defending elements.

Nevertheless, by the time the Seventh and Eighth Armies had closed up into position for their final assault against the Mount Etna bastion the German saw that the game was up and began the evacuation across the Strait of Messina. Our bombers operated against this line of escape, but the narrowness of the strait allowed the enemy to get out most of the badly battered German garrison during hours of darkness.

Early on Aug. 17 the U.S. 3d Division pushed into the town of Messina. A detachment from the Eighth Army soon after arrived and on that date the last remaining element of the enemy forces on the island was eliminated.

'Guess It's My Nerves,' Soldier Tells Patton

It was during this campaign that the unfortunate "slapping incident" involving General Patton took place. Patton, on a visit to base hospitals to see the wounded, encountered, in quick succession, two men who had no apparent physical hurts. Of the first one he met, Patton inquired why he was a patient in the hospital. To this the man replied, "General, I guess it's my nerves." Patton flew into a rage. He had, himself, been under a terrific strain for a period of many days. Moreover, he sincerely believed that there was no such thing as "battle fatigue" or "battle neurosis."

He always maintained that any man who began to show signs of breaking under battle conditions could be by shock be restored to a sense of responsibility and to adequate performance of duty. At the moment, also, Patton was in a highly emotional state because of the sights he had seen and the suffering he had seen among the wounded of the hospital.

He broke out into a torrent of abuse against the soldier. His tirade drew protests from doctors and nurses, but so violent was his outbreak that they hesitated to intervene.

Within a matter of moments he met a second soldier under somewhat similar circumstances. This time his emotions were so uncontrolled that he swung a hand at the soldier's head. He struck the man's helmet, which rolled along the ground, and by this time doctors and nurses, overcoming their natural timidity in the presence of the commanding general, intervened between Patton and the soldier.

Both enlisted men were, of course, badly upset. One of them was seriously ill. The doctors later testified that he had a temperature of 102. Patton soon gained sufficient control of himself to continue his inspection and left the hospital. But throughout his visit he continued to talk in a loud voice about the cowardice of people who claimed they were suffering from psychoneuroses and exclaimed that they should not be allowed in the same hospital with the brave wounded men.

What To Do? Problem Before Eisenhower

The story spread throughout the hospital and among neighboring units with lightning speed. I soon received an unofficial report from the surgeon commanding the hospital and only a few hours thereafter was visited by a group of newspaper correspondents who had been to the hospital to secure the details. Their report substantially corroborated the one I had already received from the doctor. The question became, what to do?

In forward areas it is frequently necessary, as every battle veteran knows, to use stern measures to insure prompt performance of duty by every man of the organization. In a platoon or in a battalion, if there is any sign of hesitation or shirking on the part of any individual, it must be quickly and sternly repressed. Soldiers will not follow any battle leader with confidence unless they know that he will require full performance of duty from every member of the team. When bullets are flying and every man's safety and welfare depend upon every other man in the team doing his job, men will not accept a weakening as their leader.

Patton's offense, had it been committed on the actual front, within an assaulting platoon, would not have been an offense. It would merely have been an incident of battle—no one would have even noted it, except with the passing thought that here was a leader who would not tolerate shirking.

But because of the time and place of his action Patton's offense was a serious one, more so because of his rank and standing. Thus to assault and abuse an enlisted man in a hospital was nothing less than brutal, except as it was explained by the highly emotional state in which Patton himself then existed.

His emotional tenseness and his impulsiveness were the very qualities that made him, in open situations, such a remarkable leader of an army. In pursuit and exploitation there is need for a commander who sees nothing but the necessity of getting ahead; the more he drives his men the more he will save their lives. He must be indifferent to fatigue and ruthless in demanding the last atom of physical energy. All this I well understood, and could explain the matter to myself, in spite of my indignation at the act.

Wanted To Save Patton For European Battles

I felt that Patton should be saved for service in the great battle still facing us in Europe, yet I had to devise ways and means to minimize the harm that would certainly come from his impulsive action and to assure myself that it would not be repeated.

In these circumstances I sent to Sicily three different individuals in whose judgment, tact, and integrity I placed great confidence. I not only wanted independent reports from several sources, but I wanted to accomplish the whole investigation as rapidly as possible.

As a result I determined to keep Patton. I first wrote him a sharp letter of reprimand in which I informed him that a repetition of such an offense would be cause for his instant relief. I informed him, also, that his retention as a commander in my theatre would be contingent upon his offering an apology to the two men whom he had insulted. I demanded also that he apologize to all the personnel of the hospital present at the time of the incident. Finally, I required that he appear before the officers and representative groups of enlisted men of each of his divisions to assure them that he had given way to impulse and respected their positions as fighting soldiers of a democratic nation.

Patton instantly complied and I kept in touch with results again through a series of observers and inspectors.

No Censorship, Use Own Judgment

In the meantime, as soon as I had determined upon my course of action, I called in to see me the group of reporters who had brought me the story of the occurrence. I explained to them in detail the action I had taken and the reasons for it. I read them the letter I had written to Patton and extracts from the letter he wrote me in reply. This, so far as I was then concerned, closed the incident.

On one point connected with the matter there has been considerable misapprehension. This was the assumption that censorship was applied. On the contrary, my staff and General Patton were told that under no circumstances was there to be any effort to suppress the story. These specific instructions, which I issued personally to a group of newspaper men, covered "indirect pressure" as well as direct censorship. They were flatly told to use their own judgment!

That they voluntarily refused to write or speak about the matter is proved by the fact that two of the press representatives who made a detailed report to me of the affair returned to the United States within a few days after the occurrence. They were then no longer under the direct or indirect influence of Allied Headquarters.

When months later, the story finally reached Washington via the gossip route, a great public uproar immediately followed its broadcast by a commentator. To play fair with the pressmen in our own headquarters, my chief of staff decided to hold an informal press conference to supply any details of information that they might lack. My only instructions to him were, "Tell the full truth."

After the incident was all over my old friend George sent me a long letter in which the following appeared: "I am at a loss to find words with which to express my chagrin and grief at having given you, a man to whom I owe everything and for whom I would gladly lay down my life, cause to be displeased with me."

Mussolini Thrown Out, Unrest in Italy

The results of the Sicilian campaign were more far-reaching than the mere capture of the enemy garrison. The bombastic Mussolini was thrown out. Evidence of unrest and dissatisfaction throughout the Italian nation became more and more pronounced and it was obvious that Italy was seeking the easiest way out of the war. Mussolini's place as Premier was taken by old Field Marshal Pietro Badoglio.

The Italian hope of independently negotiating a surrender was slim indeed, because throughout the Italian governmental structure Mussolini had permitted or had been forced to accept the infiltration of countless Germans, all of whom were ready to pounce upon the first sign of defection and to take over the Italian nation in name as well as in fact. But in spite of German watchfulness the Italian government attempted to reach us by sending an agent to Lisbon.

Then began a series of negotiations, secret communications, clandestine journeys by secret agents, and frequent meetings in hidden places that, if encountered in the fictional world, would have been scorned as incredible melodrama.

Brig. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, later the gallant commander of the 101st Airborne Division, had been hurried secretly to Rome, where his personal adventures and those of his companion added another adventurous chapter to the whole thrilling story. The risks he ran were greater than I asked any other agent or emissary to undertake during the war—he carried weighty responsibilities and discharged them with unerring judgment, and every minute was in imminent danger of discovery and death.

Montgomery Slips Divisions Into Italy

These negotiations were still proceeding when, according to plan, Montgomery slipped two divisions across the Strait of Messina one night against no resistance and the Allied invasion of the continent of Europe was an accomplished fact. This was on Sept. 3—a date 10 days later than I had hoped it could be done. An invasion on a wider front was clearly indicated, and after examination of every spot of the beach from Rome to the toe of the boot, the Bay of Salerno was selected. The greatest disadvantage of this plan was that its logic was obvious to the enemy as well as to us.

Inside On Patton's 'Slapping Incident'

The landing and succeeding operations developed almost identically to G-2 predictions. There was a sharp but relatively short fight in getting ashore and with minor exceptions the details of the actual landing proceeded well. The enemy, as was his custom, immediately began to counterattack and by the 13th had gathered up sufficient strength to make a major effort to throw us into the sea.

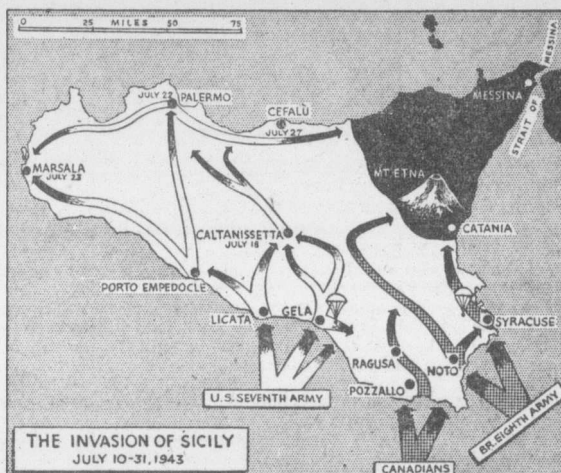

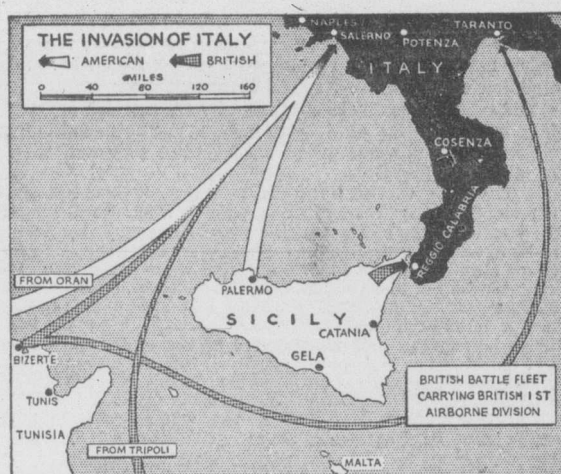

Continued reports and reconnaissance on the 13th furnished the details of the German attack, and that day Air Chief Marshal Tedder was ordered to concentrate the full strength of his air force, to include every plane that could fly, in attack upon sensitive spots in the German formations.

Tedder Delivers Precision Air Attack

This great air attack was delivered with precision and effectiveness on the morning of the 14th. So badly did it disrupt the enemy's communications, supplies, and mobility that, with the aid of naval gunfire, the ground troops regained the initiative and thereafter German counterattacks were never in sufficient strength to threaten our general position.

Again we decided to gamble, and in this case a tremendous burden of responsibility was assumed by Admiral Cunningham. He unhesitatingly agreed to push his battle fleet directly into Taranto Harbor, discounting the possibility of treachery or destruction by mine fields, in order to carry the British First Airborne Division into the docks at that point.

The operation was carried out as planned on Sept. 9, but with the loss of one fine British cruiser and more than 200 men she was carrying. She was sunk by a mine in the harbor of Taranto.

With this landing we were ashore on the Italian mainland in three places, Salerno, Taranto and Reggio Calabria.

In favor of smaller operations around "the underbelly of Europe."

This problem in the major strategy of the war came into sharp focus at the Cairo meeting of the Prime Minister and President Roosevelt. General Eisenhower attended that conference, where he fought for his plan. His own version of the arguments on both sides is presented for the first time in the eleventh installment of "Crusade in Europe," which will be published in the Victoria Daily Times tomorrow.

Stampeders Nearing Peak Form For Final

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampeders flashed some of their best football practice form of the season last night as they rolled through a rugged workout for their Nov. 27 Dominion championship final in Toronto.

The snap and precision displayed by the western champions brought grins of delight from a small turnout of gridiron faithful, who braved a cool wind to watch the 2½ hour drill.

Coach Les Lear, who will fly to Ottawa Thursday night to scout next Saturday's eastern final between Ottawa Roughriders and Hamilton Tigers, spent a major portion of the session on blocking assignment drills. Every member of the club appeared to be nearing their peak form of the season as Lear ended the gruelling workout with a full-dress scrimmage.

ROWE LOOKS SHARP

Veteran fullback Paul Rowe, leading scorer in the Western Conference this season, stole a big share of the sideline applause with bone-crushing plunges that carried him for long gains while also in the limelight were teenage players, who ran the ends and hit the line like veterans.

Backs Normie Kwong and Cedric Gyles were particularly effective on extension plays. Pete Thodos and substitute fullback Rod Pantang, both former Vancouver juniors, picked up sizeable gains on off-tackle plays through the big Stampeder first-string line.

Stamps will continue to hold daily workouts until Thursday night when they will leave for the east. They will hold the final week of workouts for the Grey Cup classic at Appleby College in Oakville, Ont.

Injuries Hit Ottawa Riders

OTTAWA (CP)—Two Ottawa Roughriders players won't be in the line-up when the Big Four champions meet Hamilton Tigers Saturday.

Coach Wally Masters says Lally Lalonde and Pete Finlay, both outside wingers, were hurt badly enough in the smashing battle against Montreal Alouettes last Saturday to be kept out of the eastern Canada football final. Lalonde has a knee injury and a possible shoulder separation. Finlay is suffering from a broken left hand.

For the other players, Master is planning to ease up training. "This team has come through a hard, rough schedule in the last two weeks and they're going to get as much rest as possible," he said last night.

The Riders gathered at Lansdowne Park for a round-table discussion of plays they're working out against playing-coach Frank Filchock's Tigers.

Although the team will work out as usual today, Masters says nothing strenuous will be planned.

Filchock will bring the Tigers into Ottawa Friday afternoon. About 1,500 Tigers' fans are expected for the Saturday sudden-death skirmish for the right to meet Calgary Stampeders in the Grey Cup classic.

Hamilton Players Sweep Rep Berths

TORONTO (CP)—Hamilton Tigers today wrote another proud page in their brilliant football history by sweeping eight of the 12 places on the Ontario Rugby Football Union's all-star team.

Seldom before has the mythical squad, selected for the Canadian Press by football writers and coaches in the four union cities, been dominated to such a degree by one team. It emphasized the overwhelming superiority of the Tigers, under playing-coach Frank Filchock, in winning the league title with an undefeated streak of 11 games.

The four other places on the dream team went to Toronto Beavers Indians whom the Tigers whipped in two straight games in a best-of-three title playoff series. Neither Sarnia Imperials nor Windsor Rockets, the other two clubs, won a spot on the team.

The vote was weighted to give equal balloting strength to each union city.

The team:
Flying wing—Gerry Walsh, Hamilton.
Half—Jack Harper, Hamilton.
Half—Jack Stewart, Hamilton.
Half (secondary defence)—Doug Pyzer, Toronto.
Quarter—Frank Filchock, Hamilton.
Snap—Jake Gaudaur, Hamilton.

Inside—Don McKenzie, Toronto.
Inside—Eddie Remigis, Hamilton.

Middle—Pat Santucci, Hamilton.

Middle—Lorne Parkin, Toronto.

Outside—Verne Picard, Toronto.

Outside—Danny DiFrancisco, Hamilton.

UNANIMOUS CHOICE

The brilliant playing of Filchock, former professional star with Washington Redskins and New York Giants whose passing and coaching have been the sensation of the O.R.F.U., was recognized by the selectors, who made him the only unanimous choice.

The weakness in the backfield is the absence of a top-notch kicker but in every other department it excels. Its strength lies in Filchock's passing the running of Stewart and Uzyer, the plunging of the 200-pound Walsh and the pass-receiving of Harper.

In front is a hard-charging, heavy wingline that has Eddie Remigis of the Tigers and Don Quakers 6 to 4 in a scheduled Western Canada Senior Hockey League tilt here. It was the only game of the night and was witnessed by some 6,000 fans.

Andy Clovechok and Morey Rimstad paced the Edmonton attack with a pair of goals each with the other markers going to Bing Merluk and Bill Maher. Mike Yaschuk, with three goals, was tops for the Quakers. Ray Johnston got the fourth Saskatoon goal.

The Flyers, last year's Allan Cup champions, appeared below form in a rather sloppy game but the fighting Quakers, although they were never ahead, came back three times to deadlock the score before bowing out late in the final session.

Notre Dame Given Scare

Northwestern's Art Murakowski gains five yards off left tackle in the second quarter of the Wildcats' grid battle against Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. In the third quarter Murakowski ran 90 yards for a touchdown to put his club in front 7 to 6. However, the Fighting Irish came back for a major score in the final quarter to win 12 to 7 and keep their brilliant record intact.

N.H.L. Player Deals Governed By Self-Imposed Restrictions

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP)—Competition at the highest management level of professional hockey today is as severe, strenuous and feud-provoking as between teams on the ice.

The scramble for talent—untrained or broken to harness—is at its wildest. But it is a regulated wildness.

The six clubs of the National Hockey League, big time of the ice game, operate on self-imposed regulations respecting: Negotiation list, reserve list, draft, standard contract, retirement, pension.

The negotiation list is an arrangement whereby a club puts the finger on an amateur player; it would like to deal with and notifies the N.H.L.—but not necessarily the youngster concerned until his name is on the list. Each club's negotiation list is limited to four players.

The reserve list is made up of players whose agreements range from a try-out to virtual contract, the latter accompanied by cold cash. A club may carry 40 players on its reserve list, plus four goalkeepers.

So far as the N.H.L. is concerned, the draft has relaxed into a coma. For the last two seasons no player has been lifted from either of two minor leagues—U.S. Hockey League and the Pacific Coast Hockey League—at the draft price of $10,000.

The reason is simple. U.S.H.L. and P.C.H.L. clubs do better in sales of the prospective draftees, one per club.

PLAYER PROTECTION

A player may be loaned anywhere for three seasons but, for his own protection, if he has been shuffled off to the minors three times he may be claimed on waivers by any N.H.L. club. If claimed, he can be farmed out only on his N.H.L. salary.

The American Hockey League does not recognize the "draft" and shudders at the word "minor" despite sponsorship of five teams in its ranks by N.H.L. clubs and farming out of N.H.L. players to almost all its 11 clubs.

The standard contract is an out-and-out agreement between club and player setting forth the rights and limitations of each. Sale, transfer, trade and reservation of the player's services for the succeeding season are provided for. Special inducements to signing and bonuses, other than those automatically accruing to players for the finishing position of their club or recognized awards for individual performance, are something else. They must be written or inserted into the contract.

Retirement regulations involve unconditional release and waivers. Reinstatement into amateur ranks is also possible.

The N.H.L. pension plan, effective since Oct. 1, 1947, is applicable to players with a minimum of two years' service and includes player contribution.

There is no limit on individual salaries in the N.H.L. and no salary limit on clubs. Nobody tells his salary nowadays but it's a certainty a topnotcher can demand and get around $10,000. If his team wins the league title and the Stanley Cup or if he finishes the schedule as leading point-scorer or low-average goalkeeper, his earnings may hit $15,000.

If the retired pro feels sorry enough he can go back to amateur play. To do this, he needs an unconditional release or a place on the voluntary-retired list and must be waived by other clubs in professional hockey. Then the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association or the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, depending on whose jurisdiction he comes under, will give his blessing and the old-timer is eligible for amateur ranks once more.

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

RESUMPTION of racing at California's Tanforan track this winter reminds one of the tradition that centres around one of the oldest racing plants on the continent. The original Tanforan set-up was built in 1898 by Prince Ponistowski, a Polish sportsman. It was named for Tibrio Tanforan, a Spanish grandee and horseman. Until legislation stopping California racing for a period, Tanforan was the centre of the sport of kings in the northern portion of the state.

TANFORAN served as a guinea pig in the movement for the revival of racing in 1923, when a betless 25-day meeting was held under the sponsorship of Rudolph and A. B. Spreckles, A. K. Macomber, C. K. G. Billings and Thomas Ryan. Several "educational" meetings followed. With California's racing renaissance in 1933, Tanforan opened under the sponsorship of a group headed by Henry Russell. Like other California tracks Tanforan saw war service, first as a detention centre for Japanese and later as an advanced staging base for the navy. Tanforan is now owned by a group headed by Eugene Mori, president of Garden State Park in New Jersey. With the track rebuilt in 1947 and the stands remodeled, Tanforan ranks with the most up-to-date race courses.

TOSSING a hearty guffaw at modern baseball, Ty Cobb, generally acknowledged as the greatest ball player of all time, sports in the current issue of Sport "the live ball has ruined the game, eliminated the speed and skill of a player needed during the era of a squishy, slow apple." Continuing, Cobb states: "Why that rabbit-ball they use now has ruined the value of the one run and the double steal. Outfielders now are no more than caddies. They don't even attempt to cut loose with a throw to stop a run at the plate. Second base is no longer a place that puts a runner in scoring position."

CONTINUING in his disdain of modern baseball the Detroit Tigers immortal declared: "Nothing means much today. Some second-rate hinky-dink can come up and pop a ball clear to the fence, a hit that with the old ball would have barely got out of the infield." The article points out that, though Cobb was the most hated and the most feared player of his or any other era, he played in more games, scored more runs, made more hits, stole more bases and held more records than any other man in baseball history.

Jack Parry New Scoring Champion In College Union

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Parry, brilliant half of University of Western Ontario Mustangs, led the Intercollegiate Senior Football Union scorers this season with 44 points in six games.

Statistics compiled by the Canadian Press show that Parry led Bruce Cummings of the University of Toronto Blues by 11 points. Cummings finished the season with a rush, scoring 13 points in Saturday's closing game while Parry went scoreless for the first time this season.

Jack Harper of Hamilton Tigers in the Ontario Rugby Football Union and Virgil Wagner of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four shared eastern Canada senior honors. Harper got 60 points in the nine-game O.R.F.U. schedule which wound up Oct. 30 and Wagner got 60 in 12 Big Four games, the schedule ending Nov. 6.

Parry succeeded Bob McFarlane as the intercollegiate leader. McFarlane, who got 60 points in six games last season, was hampered by injuries this year and scored only four points in three games. A year ago Parry finished third with 25 points.

Toronto Leafs Call Back Harry Taylor

TORONTO (CP)—President Conn Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs Monday night recalled right winger Harry Taylor from Pittsburgh Hornets and sent Les Costello down to Pittsburgh.

Smythe said Costello was being sent down for more experience because "too many of our regulars are playing below expectations to allow us to carry two inexperienced players at the same time."

The team already is carrying Fleming Mackell, a recent graduate of junior ranks.

Taylor turned professional in 1947 after starring with Winnipeg Monarchs in 1946 when they won the Memorial Cup.

Veteran Carveth Hits Old Form

MONTREAL (CP)—Joe Carveth, a veteran winger who failed to hit his best stride last season after being traded to Montreal by Boston, found the range last week to pick up four goals and an assist in three games and move into a third-place tie in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Official statistics release today show Grant Warwick, Boston Bruins' mighty mite, still leading the pack with 14 points, two more than linemate Eddie Sandford. Deaglocked with Carveth with 11 points are Chicago's Doug Bentley and Billy Reay of Montreal.

City Junior Grid Final Slated Sunday

Canadian Scottish and Oak Bay Gobblins will meet in the first of a two-game, total-point series for the city junior Canadian football championship at Macdonald Park Sunday at 2.30.

Proceeds from the game will be turned over to the Solarium.

Second game of the series will be played the following Sunday.

The Scottish team will practice at Central Park Wednesday night at 5 and at the Armories Thursday night at 7.

Murdo McKay Sets Scoring Pace In American League

NEW YORK (CP)—Murdo McKay of the lagging Buffalo Bisons this week took over top honors in American Hockey League scoring with 32 points.

The Fort William, Ont., centre ousted Carl Liscombe of Providence Reds, a familiar figure at the top for many weeks. Liscombe, who won the A.H.L. scoring title last season, was in second place with 26 points.

Harry Dick, rugged Washington Lions defenceman, led the punishment column with 40 minutes in the penalty box.

St. Louis goalie Ralph Almas led in both goaltender departments.

Australian Girls Turn To Boxing

SYDNEY (AP)—Girl boxers are hitting the sports headlines in Australia.

Barbara Buttrick of Yorkshire put them on the front page. Barbara, 18, issued a ring challenge to any girl or woman between 98 and 112 pounds.

Three Sydney lasses answered: Fay Lynch, 18, 114 pounds; Pat Bailey, 17, 112; and Cath Thomas, 18, 117.

The girls train solidly at a gymnasium under the eye of a professional. They run, skip, punch the bag, shadow box and spar.

Carveth has been an important factor in Canadiens' climb to second place in the loop standing. Playing right wing on a line with Norm Dussault and Reay, the former Detroit and Boston winger has helped the unit become the Habits' most potent attacking trio.

Five players are tied for goal-getting honors. Warwick, Sandford, Carveth, Harry Watson of Toronto and Detroit's Ted Lindsay each have sniped six counters.

TOPS IN ASSISTS

Reay has taken over leadership of the assists column with nine, while Warwick is next best with eight.

Elmer Lach of Canadiens, last year's scoring champion, hasn't been hitting the target too often so far this campaign but he does lead in one department—penalties—with 30 minutes.

Harry Lumley retained top spot among the netminders with a goals-against average of 1.54 in 11 games. Bill Durnan of Montreal is next with a 1.64 percentage and also leads in shut-outs with three.

Betting Handle Shows Drop On New York Tracks

NEW YORK (AP)—The 4,514,277 racegoers who bet $333,028,308 at New York's tracks this year had to pay $52,338,505 for that privilege. The latter figure is the 15-per-cent "take" plus breakage.

The drops in daily averages, which must be used for comparisons since there were only 188 days of racing last season, came to .094 at the tote windows and .055 at the gate.

Currency Limits Reduce Migration

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta Municipal Affairs Minister Gerhart said Monday government-imposed currency restrictions in the United Kingdom were the thing which was preventing a wholesale exodus of Britons and British capital to Canada.

Mr. Gerhart returned Saturday after a three-month visit to Europe during which he attended sessions of the Commonwealth parliamentary conference in London.

Mr. Gerhart, who also holds a cabinet position as Provincial Secretary, said nationalization of the coal mines and of transport was accepted in good grace by Britons, but a more serious view was taken of nationalization of the steel and iron industries.

External Affairs Scholarship Honors Retiring Premier

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario friends of Canada's retiring Prime Minister have endowed the W. L. King Scholarship for Master of Arts in External Affairs in his honor at the University of Toronto, where Mr. King won an Edward Blake Scholarship in arts and law in 1893.

Frank N. Walker, member of the scholarship committee, of which External Affairs Minister Pearson is honorary chairman, said the scholarship would be worth $1,000 annually.

The scholarship is designed to encourage research in Canadian external relations and to obtain through extended investigation, an understanding of the questions arising from the Dominion's growing participation in this field.

INQUIRY INTO CONTRACTS

"The first duty which Mr. King performed in external and home relations began over 50 years ago," said Mr. Walker, "when in 1898 he received a government commission to inquire into methods of carrying out government contracts in Canada and Europe."

"From that time forward his interest in that field grew each year and when he became Prime Minister in 1921, he also became Minister of External Affairs."

The scholarship will be open to students who are Canadians by birth and who hold a Bachelor of Arts degree from any Canadian University. Students must have included in undergraduate studies at least two of geography, political science, economics and history, over a period of at least two years. The award will be made by the inter-departmental committee on international relations.

Need Blood Donors For Clinic Here

An objective of 3,650 pints of blood is being sought by the Red Cross in British Columbia to augment and maintain the provincial blood bank. Vancouver Island, Red Cross officials hope, will provide 1,000 pints of this objective during the current visit here of the mobile collection unit.

The clinic arrived here Friday for a five-day stay. Friday, it operated at Langford where 65 donations were given. Saturday, it was stationed at the Eagles' Hall in Victoria and received 145 donations from members of the fraternal order.

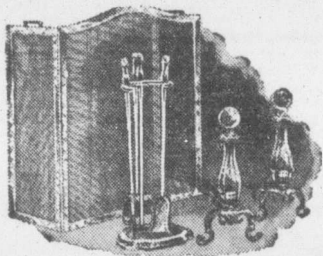

Today and Tuesday the clinic is operating at Red Cross House, 1046 View Street, from 1.30 to 4.30 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9 at night.

"If the island is to come anywhere near reaching its objective, many more new donors will have to attend the clinics today and tomorrow," one Red Cross official stated.

He urges all persons living in Greater Victoria willing to donate to this service to contact Red Cross House at B 2213 immediately.

School Board Terms Salary Requests 'Unreasonable'

A revised salary schedule with increases totaling $320,626 or almost one-third over the present annual salary total of approximately $990,000 is being sought by teachers of Greater Victoria.

At a meeting Monday night, members of the Greater Victoria School Board tabled the request for salary increases after terming them "beyond the bounds of reason."

The proposed schedule, submitted to the board last month, would, in the opinion of Trustee M. P. Paine, result in the other school board employees—janitors, principals, inspectors and staff members at Victoria College (who are not included in the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association), seeking increases. He said the total increases with these other groups considered would reach the half million dollar mark.

PRELIMINARY NEGOTIATIONS

Mrs. Hazel E. Hodson, chairman of the teachers' association salary committee, reported following the meeting that negotiations were still in the preliminary stage and would likely continue for two months.

Trustee R. H. Green, chairman of the school board's finance committee, did most of the talking on the proposed increases, bringing out examples of present salaries and what the increases would mean if granted.

Trustee Green stated that the new salary schedule, if approved, would result in an average increase throughout Greater Victoria of $885.70 per teacher. On the basis of a 195-working-day year, the highest paid teachers would get $24.36 per day, he added.

Some teachers, who were receiving in the neighborhood of $2,600 per year in 1947 would receive about double that amount by 1949 under the proposed salary schedule, it was stated.

Austin I. Curtis, chairman of the board, estimated that a boost of 4.5 points in the mill rate over the Greater Victoria area would be necessary to meet the teachers' demands.

Trustee Benjamin Caley, Esquimalt, quipped "the teachers seem to be thinking more of the bankbook than the textbook."

The proposed salary schedule calls for an increase in the minimum salary of elementary school teachers with no experience from $1,300 to $1,650, and corresponding increments for other classifications.

For secondary school teachers, the minimum salary requested is $2,000 for "B" classification, $2,150 for "A" classification and $2,300 for "A-plus" classification. Minimums now stand at $1,500, $1,600 and $1,700, respectively.

Maximum wages in these three classes, now set at $2,800, $3,100 and $3,500, but would increase to $3,800, $4,100 and $4,700 under the proposed schedule.

The present schedule, drawn up in 1947, gave teachers a total increase of between $125,000 and $130,000. Last February, this schedule was amended following action by an arbitration board, with a further $40,000 per year being granted.

Following Trustee Green's report, some members of the board expressed amazement at the demands. Said Trustee Paine, "the teachers seem to be far out of touch with reason—it appears that they cannot realize what the overall effect of these increases means in terms of dollars and cents."

A further example of what the granting of the request would mean was given by the finance committee chairman. He pointed out that the maximum increase would be $1,250 and the minimum $850. He noted that one unmarried woman teacher now getting $3,800 per annum would get over $5,000 under the proposed schedule.

The motion to table the request of the teachers was tabled unanimously.

Shift System May Be Inaugurated In City Schools

Indications that a shift system might be inaugurated in the schools of Greater Victoria were given by J. F. K. English, inspector, at a meeting of the school board Monday night.

"We are still greatly overcrowded," he said, "but it is not the case in every school—some have adequate space, but most have not. We are no worse off than other parts of the province, but we are the only large district which does not now use the shift system in schools. We probably will have to use it if the situation gets any worse."

Mr. English told the board he proposed to take a census of children under six years old early next year in order that some estimate of future needs can be determined. A similar census, taken two years ago, had been a big help, he pointed out.

Trustee M. P. Paine, commenting on the education committee's report which revealed there were 398 more children in city schools last month than in October, 1947, said that he felt that definite plans for a school building program should be made.

The board had previously decided to try and get by with present accommodation because building costs were so high.

Mr. English said he did not expect as great an enrollment in elementary schools next September as this year, but spoke of an anticipated increase in the population of high schools.

"The high schools' population will not increase until this wave from the elementary schools hits it in two years. Then we will be properly up against it," he stated.

Austin I. Curtis Seeks Re-election To School Board

Chairman Austin I. Curtis and three other members of the Greater Victoria School Board whose terms of office expire this year, will stand for re-election at the Dec. 9 elections.

Mr. Curtis and Benjamin Caley, Esquimalt representative, announced at a meeting of the board Monday night they will run for office again.

Earlier M. P. Paine of Saanich and Miss Isla Tuck, Victoria, announced they would seek re-election.

Mrs. H. A. Beckwith, Oak Bay trustee, is undecided on whether she will ask electors to return her to office.

FOURTH TERM

Mr. Curtis, completing his fourth term as a member of the board, said he wants to see the schools building program through to a successful conclusion.

He was a member of the board when it was first discussed and when ratepayers authorized the borrowing of $3,500,000. The program has been slowed through rising costs and other complications.

Four trustees elected to two-year terms last year are Maj. R. H. Green and A. W. Trivet, city representatives; W. P. Jeune, Saanich, and J. A. de Bourcier, Oak Bay.

Stolen Car Recovered

The 1946 sedan owned by Mrs. J. O. Cameron, 1262 Rockland Avenue, which was stolen in the small hours of Monday morning, was recovered undamaged by Constable Joseph Barlow early this morning in the vicinity of the Beacon Hill Park Lookout.

Insp. Harry Mercer, chief of city detectives, reported that investigations are being made to learn whether or not this vehicle was used in the safe robbery at Hawkes Bros. Service Garage, Moss Street, between 1 and 4 Monday morning.

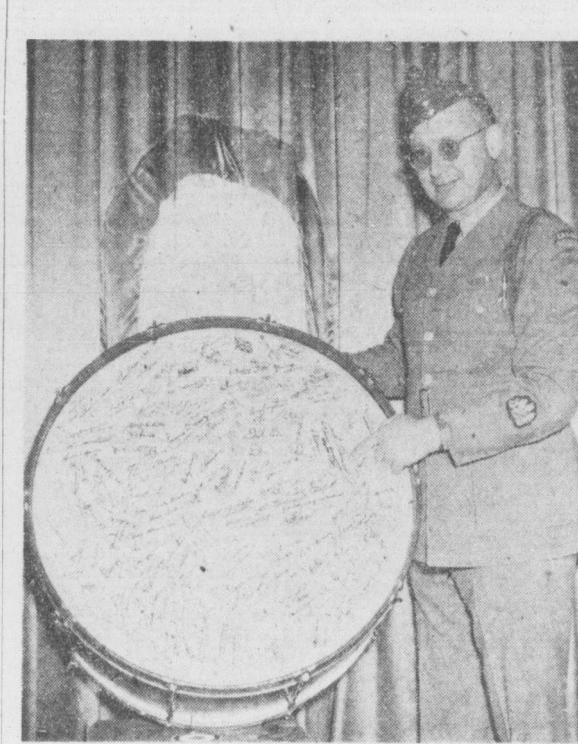

There is no evidence the 400-pound safe, containing valuable documents and about $500 in cash, was carried in the rear seat. There is a possibility marks in the baggage compartment may have been made by a heavy object.

$300 Or 3 Months, Liquor Case Penalty

Jack Davis, 536 Johnson St., who Monday pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawfully keeping liquor for sale, was fined $300, or in default, serve three months in jail, when he appeared before Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today for sentence.

John Viggers was found guilty on a charge of dangerous driving today in city police court. He was fined $40 and his driver's license was suspended for one month by Magistrate H. C. Hall. He was in an accident with a vehicle driven by Fred Fotherington at Hillside and Rose on Oct. 6. Similar charge against Fotherington was withdrawn.

Roosevelt, Alan Young, Jack Benny, Lauritz Melchior, Rose Bampton, Marjorie Lawrence, Sigmund Romberg, Igor Stravinsky, and ex-mayor of New York City the "Little Flower" himself, Fiorella La Guardia, who conducted the band on his visit to the west just before he passed away. The purpose of this visit of the band is to restir public interest in the Royal Canadian Air Force as a career for the young men of Canada.

More Than 3,300 Acres Reserved For Park Purposes This Year

The provincial lands department is making sure that in the future there will be no shortage of parks.

A report to Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney today showed that this year to Nov. 3 there had been set aside for the recreation and enjoyment of the public 43 areas with a total area of 2,920 acres.

As surveys go about the mapping and surveying of various parts of the province they have noted various areas which would make fine parks. They are often small islands, areas bordering on lakes and rivers and lots containing hot springs.

Of the 43 areas set aside to Nov. 3 eight were in the Cariboo district, seven in the Lillooet district, seven in the Kamloops district, six in the Kootenay district and 15 in various other parts of the province.

Since Nov. 3 six more park areas were reserved last week, including a 122-acre block on Roserim Lake and a 160-acre block on Canoe River. This would bring the areas reserved for park purposes to date this year to more than 3,300 acres.

City Voters' List Posted For Public; 700 More Names Added

There is an increase of approximately 700 names to the city voters' list this year, it was learned today when the list was posted for public perusal at the City Hall.

This is a large increase than was seen last year over the list of the previous year.

In 1946 there were 16,725 names on the list; in 1947 there were 570 more, or a total of 17,295, and this year the list totals approximately 18,084.

Slight changes to this year's list are expected when a court of revision is held at the City Hall next Saturday morning at 10. The court will be in the city council chambers and will be composed of Mayor Percy George and Aldermen J. D. Hunter and M. Aubrey Kent.

City Clerk M. Frank Hunter, returning officer for the Dec. 9 civic elections, noted on completion of this year's list that there has been an increase of nearly 7,000 names to the voters' list from 1927 when it contained 11,256 names.

The list went to 12,189 in 1931 but slipped back to 11,469 the following year. It did not pass the 12,000 mark again until 1938 when it totaled 12,130. Since then it has climbed steadily with no set-backs.

In the 1946 civic elections 7,866 or 47.03 per cent of the number of persons eligible to vote cast ballots. Last year fewer people exercised the franchise, 7,047 or 40.75 per cent of the total number on the voters' list.

"This year we are hoping to see a better showing," Mr. Hunter said.

City Counting On Further Share This Year From 3 Per Cent Tax

City officials are counting on more revenue this year from the provincial retail sales tax.

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb announced Monday B.C. municipalities would receive $2,000,000 on Dec. 15 from the sales tax collections.

The city's share of this amount is 6.11 per cent, or $132,222 which is $21,778 less than what the City Council expected to receive when it made its budget at the beginning of the year.

The council placed in the budget an estimated revenue of $154,000 from the retail sales tax this year.

FOR 3 MONTHS
City comptroller D. A. MacDonald believes the $132,222 which the city is certain to re-

Ward 4 Saanich Wants Vote On Move To Eliminate Ward System

Councillor Leslie Passmore's move to try and get Saanich council to put a plebiscite to the people to find out if they want abolition of the ward system, got full support at a meeting of Saanich Ward 4 Ratepayers' Association Tuesday night.

The meeting unanimously endorsed a motion that this plebiscite be placed before the people in the December elections. Mr. Passmore will make this motion at the council meeting next Tuesday night and also that only six councillors, rather than seven as at present be elected.

Mr. Passmore expressed the opinion that the people had not been given an opportunity to express themselves on main issues concerning the municipality. He said voters had been denied their rights under the democratic system.

Councillor E. C. Cummins, present member for Ward 4, and Councillor W. C. Kersey, Ward 6, said they were against abolition.

Mr. Cummins saw where most of the council would be elected in the heavily populated areas. He was afraid some sections of the municipality would not be represented on the council.

Mr. Kersey said he may support a plebiscite on the matter, but was not personally in favor of doing away with the wards, chiefly because rural and urban interests in Saanich were so different and he could see the danger of the rural faction being left out in the cold.

Councillor George Rudd, Ward 2, joined the other two in stating he did not want to see the ward system abolished. He would, however, back the plebiscite move.

MORE PROGRESSIVE

Councillor Thomas F. Alexander, Ward 1, said he could see a much more progressive Saanich with the sectional system out. He was the first to start debate on abolition of the wards at the council, is a great booster of improvements being made under the local improvement setup, such as was accomplished with street lighting in his ward.

President of the association, John Norrington, wanted the vote on the ward question. He noted where the voters had not been given an opportunity to cast their ballots on the amalgamation question.

It was thought that the people should also have been given a chance to state their opinions on spending $20,000 for additions to the municipal hall. Voting last year defeated the plan to spend $40,000 on the same. The council at its last meeting approved plans, ordered the clerk to draw up specifications and call for tenders.

Councillors J. L. Hobbs, ward 3, and Rudd and Cummins spoke of the great need for the additions to ease the cramped conditions for municipal employees carrying on the business of the municipality.

HEAR WARD 4 CANDIDATES

There will be a three-way contest for Ward 4 seat on the council. All three candidates were heard.

Mr. Cummins merely said he would stand on his past record. Alexander Kilpatrick, a two-war veteran, said he favored ward abolition, also establishment of an airport at Gordon Head.

He believed that flood areas in the municipality can be wiped out, scored the council for allowing ditches in Ward 4 to become plugged. This he said was causing the annual trouble at Panama Flats. Mr. Kilpatrick said he would fight for a sewerage system and better roads.

The candidate served overseas in the first war and on the home front in the latest conflict. With regard to lack of Saanich and Oak Bay action to provide housing schemes for veterans, he said:

"They should hang their heads in shame!"

Mr. Kilpatrick has been a resident of the island for 25 years.

Albert E. Hull, the other candidate in the field, said he would present his platform at a later date. Besides eight years served on Saanich School Board, Mr. Hull was president of the Pro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion for two years, vice-president for five years. He served overseas in World War One with the 48th Battalion.

Princess' Son A Commoner Until King Confers Title

Legally the son of Princess Elizabeth is a commoner since the royal styles conferred on the baby's father, the Duke of Edinburgh, do not affect the status of his children.

This is in accord with the rules laid down by King George V in July, 1917, when the name of Windsor was adopted as the surname for the Royal family.

King George VI has already announced he will have the title Prince of Edinburgh conferred on the child but until such time as he does the baby who someday may reign over the British Empire will be known only by the courtesy style Earl of Merioneth, his father's second title. Christian names for the baby will perhaps be kept secret until the christening. By precedent, children of the royal family are usually christened about one month after birth.

No special financial provisions will be considered for the child by Parliament until he reaches the age of 18.

At present the household of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh is largely maintained by the king out of his personal savings. Annual sums are paid the king in exchange for property inherited by the royal family. The public is said to get far more back in revenues from the royal lands, than it pays out to royalty.

Last year, according to the United Kingdom Information Office in Ottawa, the public in Britain made a profit of nearly $4,000,000 on the exchange.

No specific appointments are made on the birth of a child in the royal family. Princess Elizabeth's baby will have no personal attendants beyond a nurse.

The parents have already made it known they wish to give their child the simplest kind of upbringing. Every effort will be made to prevent all intrusion on the family life of the royal couple and their baby and to provide seclusion and shelter from over-early exposure to publicity. Some sources believe the family will spend the first year of the baby's life at Sandringham, one of the King's favorite country estates.

It was announced at the club's luncheon Monday that the sum of $1,011, the proceeds from the "Wishing Well" in the Poodle Dog Cafe, would be used to purchase and install the much-needed system.

Canadian issues were mixed. Canadian Pacific and Distillers were up, each adding  $\frac{1}{8}$ . Hiram Walker eased  $\frac{1}{8}$ . Dome Mines dropped  $\frac{1}{8}$  and McIntyre lost  $\frac{1}{8}$ .

15 utilities — 33.16, up .06
